YOUNG MEN FIRST?

Congress May Be Asked To Overhaul Draft Laws

Washington (AP) — The national draft debate will switch from college campuses to Congress next year—and if legislators pay heed to intellectual critics and their military boosters, they will revolutionize the draft laws and begin drafting youngest men first.

The surprising marriage of scholars and soldiers emerged during a national draft conference at the University of Chicago last week. Conferees agreed that the marriage should last until Congress acts on a series of proposals to revise the Selective Service Act—key parts of which expire next June 30.

For four days a select group of more than 100 scholars, Army officers, senators, pacifists, Pentagon experts, radical students and government specialists quibbled and quarreled over at least 25 proposals to modify or abolish the draft.

Only one short-range agreement was reached; given the fact that the draft must be continued, youths 18 or 19 should be exposed to it first.

In the long-range, the draft conferees generally agreed that an all-volunteer professional standing army would be the ideal alternative to the draft. But they left unresolved the thorny question of whether such an army is feasible in wartime.

The meeting was dominated by academicians and, true to academic form, it was decided that Congress will be asked next year to make an exhaustive study on the feasibility of the professional army. Military experts at the sessions, while applauding the built-in equity of a volunteer army, flatly declared it is out of the question for the present.

But the appeal for drafting the youngest was clear to all: it would eliminate what they considered the arbitrary and capricious rules for student deferments—rules which vary from local board to local board.

One of the loudest protests came from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who at one time during the conference described the selective service system as a maze of inequities.

Kennedy called again for establishment of a lottery system of draft selection.

Right now there are about 32.8 million men registered under the Selective Service laws at more than 4,000 local boards across the nation.

But the number of men in the prime 1A category was only about 1.4 million last month. The pool has shrunk by about 600,000 men in the last year as more men were inducted into the armed services to meet the increasing U.S. commitment in South Vietnam.

Pentagon officials, faced early this year with the question of where to get added manpower, had two possibilities: the 1.5 million deferred students classified 2S and the 2.4 million youths classified 1Y who failed to meet the armed services' mental or physical requirements.

After some hints that they would begin drafting college students, the Pentagon finally decided in June to lower its standards and began inducting more 1Ys. Since then, defense officials have announced three further cutbacks in requirements—all aimed at getting more marginally qualified men into the Army.

RFK Says Bugging Not OKd

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy D-N.Y. denied Saturday that he authorized a series of "bugging" investigations by the FBI when he served as Attorney General.

Kennedy issued a statement in which he said that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was misinformed when he told a Congressman Kennedy had authorized microphone surveillances.

In a letter to Rep. H. R. Gross R-Ia., Hoover said that Kennedy had authorized and approved the investigations. In recent weeks the Justice Department has been forced to publicly acknowledge that some of its indictments were secured on the basis of evidence gathered by eavesdropping.

To back up his denial, Kennedy released a letter from Courtney Evans, now a lawyer, who was appointed by Hoover as a liaison officer between the FBI and the Attorney General.

Evans, a 21-year veteran of the FBI, was present every time any matter was discussed with any representative of the FBI and Kennedy the Senator said.

The letter dated Feb. 17, 1966, said that the FBI submitted to Kennedy shortly before he took office in 1961 a summary on the use of wiretapping in serious national security cases.

The letter added, "There after, individual requests in the serious national security cases for wiretap authorization were sent to you by the FBI for approval. These were the only wiretap authorizations which were ever submitted to you."

Nebraska Due Reprieve From Cold Snap

Nebraska will receive a reprieve from the present cold snap today as temperatures are expected to rise slightly above freezing.

High temperatures ranging from 30 to 35 degrees are expected for Lincoln and eastern Nebraska, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau. Temperatures in central and western Nebraska will rise above 40 degrees.

Skies will continue to be clear, and no precipitation is expected. Winds will be southerly from 5 to 15 mph.

The present cold weather stems from a high pressure and cold air mass centered in northern Minnesota. This air mass is expected to move east Sunday, causing temperatures to rise slightly.

The warming trend is expected to continue through Monday.

New York

Rifleman, Berserk, Kills 2

New York (UPI) — A berserk rifleman shot two men to death in Bryant Park behind the world renowned New York public library Saturday night and was critically wounded when he tried to shoot it out with the police.

Parks Commissioner Thomas Hoving, who rushed to the scene, called the killings the work of a "mad dog."

One of the six policemen credited with the capture of the gunman was Troy, N.Y., patrolman John Gray, in Manhattan to do some Christmas shopping.

Gray was only one of thousands in the area in the heart of mid-town Manhattan strolling through the exclusive shops adjoining 42nd St. and up and down famed Fifth Avenue when the shots first rang out.

Police said Gustave D. Williams, a Negro, of the South Ozone Park section of the city, shot and killed Joseph Norton Dorian, 60, of New York City, and Charles Linden Swan, 29, of Binghamton, N.Y., apparently without motive, as they enjoyed the mild temperatures in the darkened park.

The killer was near Sixth Avenue and 40th St. when he started shooting, dropping one of his victims in a clump of bushes near 40th St. and the other beside a bench farther inside the park.

Asst. Chief Police Insp. Joseph McLaughlin identified the murder weapon as a Springfield 30.06 rifle.

According to McLaughlin, the killer exited from the park at Sixth Avenue and 42nd St., still carrying the rifle, as police in the area, attracted by the shots and shouts of bystanders, closed in on him.

Algeria Seeks Talks

Compiled From News Wires

Peace feelers and talks on the Vietnam war circled the globe Saturday.

At the United Nations in New York, the Soviet Union declared there can be progress toward peace in Vietnam only when "the armed forces of American imperialism are withdrawn."

The statement came from Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko, who told the General Assembly's main political committee that the United States and Britain had indicated hopes for some new approach to a Vietnam solution.

"There cannot be anything new," he said, "until Washington renounces its aggressive policy. When Washington starts to apply a sensible policy in Vietnam and when the armed forces of American imperialism are withdrawn, then a solution will be found."

Fedorenko's remarks appeared to dash hopes that the Soviet Union might be undertaking some sort of secret role in seeking a Vietnam settlement. Rumors of such a move have circulated at U.N. headquarters since the arrival of Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov, a top Soviet troubleshooter, in New York a week ago. U.N. officials have confirmed that he and Secretary-General U Thant have discussed Vietnam along with other problems.

U.S. delegate Harding F. Bancroft quickly challenged Fedorenko's charges of U.S. aggression which he described as reminiscent of the darkest days of the cold war. Without referring specifically to Fedorenko's demand for U.S. troop withdrawals, Bancroft said:

"If at any time the Soviet Union wishes to seek a solution to the Vietnam problem—as we have made it clear we do — it could use its influence to help reduce the intensity of the hostilities."

Algeria's Efforts

Meanwhile, Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika gave Red China and North Vietnam a detailed account Saturday of the American position on ending the Vietnam war.

Bouteflika summoned the Red Chinese and North Vietnamese ambassadors to separate meetings in Algiers, Algeria, to give them a detailed account of talks between Algerian leaders and President Johnson's roving envoy, W. Averell Harriman, in the course of which Harriman asked Algeria to use its good offices to bring about peace talks for Vietnam.

Bouteflika's meetings with Chinese Ambassador Tseng Tao and North Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Van Phat initiated what could be a new phase of peace feelers, with Algeria acting as mediator.

Bouteflika summoned the two ambassadors to the foreign ministry immediately after a 90-minute meeting of Harriman and Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

'Half the War'

In Saigon Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday the United States had received no indication the Communists would extend the Christmas pause in the Vietnam war.

"We can't stop just half the war," Rusk declared. "We can't tell what the other side is going to do. We do not know the other side's response to just such a move. We haven't heard from them yet."

Rusk conferred Saturday with South Vietnamese Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky on the strategy and costs of the war.

Before leaving for Bangkok, Rusk said he will ask America's NATO allies for additional assistance in Vietnam. "But the particular form is for each one to determine."

Ruby Has Cancer

Dallas (UPI) — Doctors at Parkland Hospital Saturday confirmed Jack Ruby, charged slayer of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, is suffering from cancer.

Doctors Jay Sanford and Watts Webb of the Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, said Ruby had been operated on early Saturday and that cancer had been found in Ruby's lymph node.

They said they did not know how extensive the cancer was, nor could they say whether the cancer could be arrested.

They said they did not know how good Ruby's chances of survival were.

Ruby was taken to Parkland Hospital Friday evening with what was described as pneumonia. He was given oxygen and fluid in his lungs was removed. He was described in serious condition.

Three Slain At Home in Columbus, O.

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—A middle-aged couple and the wife's mother were found dead Saturday night, each shot in the head with a small caliber weapon and the wife's throat slashed, in their apartment on Columbus' west side.

Police, after considering the possibility of a double murder and suicide, decided triple homicide appeared more probable.

A butcher knife apparently used in the slaying was found in the family's two story apartment but no gun, according to police, who said the victims may have been dead as long as 18 hours before discovered.

The dead were Harry Levine, 47; Greta Levine, 52, and Mrs. Minnie Petrow, 82.

A. Joseph Bitonte, resident manager of the apartments, said the family had moved into the apartment only about a month ago.

Pat Denies Rumors

Luci-Watchers Claim Baby Is Due in May

Washington (UPI) — Is Luci Nugent pregnant? Friends say she will make President Johnson a grandfather in May.

Her husband, Pat, said there is no truth to the rumors. The White House and Luci herself would neither confirm nor deny them.

But friends in Washington and Texas say they have it from both Luci and her sister Lynda that the baby will be born in May.

Asked directly at the LBJ ranch recently, Luci replied: "I'm never going to say ... for security reasons." She did not say what she meant by security.

For several weeks the White House has been getting the same question several times a day. Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, has a stock answer:

"We're not going to say for reasons of health and safety."

In the past few weeks, Luci has been shy around reporters, which is not her usual style. And, the First Lady has shown an extra protectiveness toward her daughter.

In Austin, where she and Pat live in a duplex, Luci has stayed out of the limelight ... conspicuously so. Her friends say she sat out a receiving line at a Houston party recently, telling them she was pregnant.

Lynda, friends say, also has confirmed reports of Luci's pregnancy and is kidded about becoming an aunt.

Pat, who married Luci in a spectacular Washington wedding Aug. 6, issued his denial when the rumors began in earnest about a month ago.

On Scouting Trip
2 Killed On Trestle

Brighton, Mich. (UPI) — A scoutmaster and one of his boy scouts were killed Saturday when a freight train ran them down while they and 36 other scouts were hiking across a railroad trestle.

Michigan State police said the scouts scrambled madly for safety when the train approached. Some jumped off and others ran to the end of the bridge. The scoutmaster, Howard Lovell, 50, Detroit, was seen throwing some of the boys over the side bodily before he was killed.

Killed along with Lovell was John Gresham, 11, Detroit

The rest of the troop somehow escaped serious injury, except for Kevin Conners 10, Detroit, who suffered a broken leg when he jumped to the pavement below Police said the boy was deaf.

"They heard the train whistle, but they went on anyway thinking they could make it across" A state police spokesman said The accident happened in a wooded area where the scouts were camping for the weekend

The Chesepeake and Ohio trestle crosses a road and the Huron river at the point where the accident occurred. It was snowing at the time.

"The rest of the boys got out with just bruises and scratches," state police said.

Lovell was a neighborhood committeeman for the Detroit Boy Scout Council All the boys were from the same neighborhood and belonged to Troop 586

Coppolino Trial
Pathologists Vie Again After 16 Years

Freehold, N J (AP) — Sixteen years ago, in the icy depths of a cruel New England winter, a young doctor was on trial for his life in a large, airy New Hampshire courtroom About his head raised a sensational "battle of the pathologists"

The physician, Dr Hermann N Sanders, was accused of killing a Manchester, N H, cancer patient by injecting air into her veins At the time his act was deemed a "mercy killing," although he testified that euthanasia played no part in his decision

To a degree, his fate depended upon two pathologists —medical detectives who delved into the cause of death.

For the state, there was a man who is now one of the old lions of his profession, Dr. Milton Helpern, then and now chief medical examiner for the City of New York

On the defense side was Dr Richard Ford, then 35, only 10 years out of Harvard Medical School He was and is with the office of the medical examiner of Boston's Suffolk County.

Next week, in another age, another courtroom, and with another young doctor's life at stake, Ford and Helpern are scheduled to meet again in fascinating medical deadlock. Once more it is Helpern for the state, Ford for the defense.

At issue this time is the guilt or innocence of Dr. Carl Coppolino, 34, a physician who specialized in anesthesiology, and who was a student of medical hypnotism. He is accused of first-degree murder in the alleged suffocation and strangulation in 1963 of his friend and neighbor, retired Army Col. William E. Farber.

Red China Army Is Ordered to Spread Purge to Masses

Tokyo (AP) — Orders went out to the Red Chinese army Saturday to spread the Communist Party purge to China's masses and to hasten the study and application of Mao Tse-Tung's thought among the people.

At the same time, independent dispatches from Peking told of a Red Guard trial of Peng Chen, former mayor of Peking, and of Red Guard demands that President Liu Shao-Chi be "exposed and crushed."

A dispatch of Japan's Kyodo News Service said Peng and a number of intellectuals were dragged by Red Guards from their homes last Sunday and subjected by the youthful militants to a two-hour trial. The dispatch said there was no mention of a verdict.

After Liu

The Czechoslovak News Agency CTK reported that Red Guard newspapers posted on the walls of Peking demanded the exposure and crushing of President Liu and charged that he was in league with Peng and a protector of bourgeous elements within the Communist Party.

Previous dispatches had said Peng was arrested three days ago. He once was one of the most powerful men in China and a member of the Communist Party's hierarchy.

Marshal Lin Piao, the defense minister, now is considered to be No. 2 man under Communist Leader Mao Tse-Tung.

It was Lin's official organ, the Liberation Army Daily, that issued orders for a step-up in the army's efforts to spread the purge — officially called a cultural revolution—to the masses.

At the same time the paper indicated there was some resistance to the purge in the grass roots. The apparent aim of the orders was to root out anti-Maoists.

The orders in Liberation Army Daily were reported by Peking's official New China News Agency.

The present state of affairs imposes an urgent obligation on the leading army cadres at all levels to go deep among the masses, integrate themselves with the masses, learn from them and improve their ability to give the masses concrete guidance," the army paper said.

JFK's Clan Fights Publication Of 'Personal' Recollections

Chicago Daily News Special

Washington—The family of the late President John F. Kennedy is engaged in a strange and bitter struggle to delete from a book manuscript they commissioned some highly personal and poignant recollections of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

The Kennedys decline to discuss their quarrel with author William Manchester, whose book titled "Death of a President" is due to be published by Harper & Row next March. It will be serialized in four installments in Look magazine starting Jan. 10.

The trouble between Manchester and the family was magnified when the magazine rights were sold to Look which paid an estimated $600,000 to excerpt some 60,000 words for four installments. The author also began to resist efforts to remove what the Kennedys thought to be some of the more sensational passages.

Changes Opposed

The magazine objected to editing changes, although several were agreed to by its editors. Negotiations on possible changes are continuing.

The manuscript is understood to contain hitherto unpublished material involving President Johnson and the Kennedys in the immediate aftermath of the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. These revelations are likely to exacerbate existing tensions between Mr. Johnson and the Kennedy clan, according to those familiar with the Manchester work.

The author and the editors, however, have been mainly caught up in the anguish of Mrs. Kennedy over some of the disclosures in the 350,000-word manuscript. They are said to include some of her innermost thoughts and emotional attitudes at the time of the tragedy, which she doesn't want published.

Ironically, Mrs. Kennedy, together with her brother-in-law Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, handpicked Manchester to write the book for two reasons.

First, they were anxious to fend off an expected parade of authors seeking to [illegible] family's co-operation in [illegible] their own accounts of the assassination.

Jackie Impressed

Secondly, Mrs. Kennedy was greatly impressed by an earlier Manchester book about JFK, titled "Portrait of a President," a sensitive and intimate closeup of Mr. Kennedy in the White House.

According to friends, the contract with Manchester gave the family the right to review the author's manuscript and presumably to remove any material that they felt was unseemly, embarrassing or in bad taste.

The Kennedys are said to feel that Manchester violated his contract, as well as breached the confidences of the widow, who spent many hours tape-recording in the author's presence her candid recollections of events surrounding her husband's death.

The Religious Revolution

Protestants are just becoming conscious of the depth of the religious revolution which could greatly alter the entire Christian concept. In reality this revolution has been going on for many years.

Like the political parties, the Protestants some years back divided into fundamentalists and liberals.

Now there are breaches among the more liberal groups. This breach, long in the making, broke into the open in the Christian world with the "God is Dead" theology.

The National Council of Churches meeting in Miami heard two radically different views of Christian evangelism expounded.

Billy Graham, the world's leading practitioner of the "old time evangelism" emphasized individual conversion and a personal commitment to Christ.

Dr. Harvey Cox, a professor of theology at Harvard, advocated social action as the way to show the world what Christianity means. The unanswered question to many is how the "God is dead" group can divest Christ of divinity and have any real meaning left for Christians.

Graham said the essential message to be communicated is the same today as it was 2,000 years ago: "In Christ, men can find power to transform their lives."

Cox questioned whether any words—new or old—will get through to large numbers of people who have become "suspicious and distrustful" of institutional religion. He said, "People are more interested in what the church does, than in what it says," and that underprivileged members of society look upon the church as "a kind of altar boy for the status quo."

Graham agreed that the fruit of any genuine conversion is "love of neighbor which expresses itself in social service." The revolution will not have its greatest impact until that realization reaches every church in the land.

Churches have always supported missions and the work of the church in the world, but locally they have budgeted most of their funds into edifices where the underprivileged would feel ill at ease.

Theologians will continue to debate the concept of God. Christians will be troubled but man's search for God will go on as it has through the ages. Tragically, for millions in the United States God has long been dead or had little meaning.

More Property Tax Cuts

In the wake of voter approval to outlaw the state property tax, several state senators are preparing to push for further elimination of property taxes at the local level.

Various proposals taking shape would abolish the property tax on household goods, intangible property, business inventories, farm equipment, livestock, grain and, in some cases, all or part of the tax on owner-occupied homes.

These are not new or radical ideas. They have been discussed for years. Nebraska 12 years ago approved dropping the household goods tax. Both candidates for governor, in the recent campaign, advocated some form of property tax elimination. The practice is common in other states.

So the idea basically is good.

The question all too frequently overlooked, though, is how the lost revenue will be made up. Land and improvements make up only about 71% of the taxable property in the state. It is the balance, or portions of it, that is being eyed for abandonment.

Without some alternate source of revenue the tax burden on farm land and business property would become even more oppressive.

To avoid this, it is generally assumed that the slack would be taken up by a sales or income tax or both. These taxes, though, can be collected effectively only at the state level. If they are to return revenues to the local governments, some agreeable formula for distribution will have to be devised.

It is fine to consider ways of reducing further the burden of property taxes. But it is time now to talk also of the mechanics of replacing them.

A WORLD OF HUMOR

By ART BUCHWALD

Ah! For a Breath of Smog . . .

Flagstaff, Ariz.—Smog, which was once the big attraction of Los Angeles, Calif., can now be found all over the country from Butte, Mont., to New York City. And people are getting so used to polluted air that it's very difficult for them to breathe anything else.

Buchwald

I've been out lecturing this week and one of my stops was Flagstaff, Ariz., which is about 7,000 miles from sea level. As soon as I got off the plane I smelled something peculiar.

"What's that I smell?" I asked the man who met me at the plane.

"I don't smell anything," he replied.

"There's a different odor that I'm not familiar with," I said.

"Oh, you must be talking about the fresh air. A lot of people come out here who have never smelled fresh air before."

"What's it supposed to do?" I asked suspiciously.

"Nothing. You just breathe it like any other kind of air. It's supposed to be good for your lungs."

"I've heard that story before," I said. "How come if it's air my eyes aren't watering?"

"Your eyes don't water with fresh air. That's the advantage of it. Saves you a lot in paper tissues."

I looked around and everything appeared crystal clear. It was a strange sensation and made me feel very uncomfortable. My host sensing this tried to be reassuring. "Please don't worry about it. Tests have proved that you can breathe fresh air day and night without it doing any harm to the body."

"You're just saying that because you don't want me to leave," I said. "Nobody who has lived in a major city can stand fresh air for a very long time. He has no tolerance for it."

We drove away in silence. About 15 minutes later he asked, "How do you feel now?"

"Okay, I guess, but I sure miss sneezing."

"Do you enjoy it?"

"Not necessarily, but if you don't sneeze you'll die. How come there's no air pollution around here?"

"Flagstaff can't seem to attract industry. I guess we're really behind the times. The only smoke we get is when the Indians start signaling each other. But the wind seems to blow it away."

* * *

Nobody was as happy to leave Flagstaff as I was. My next stop was Los Angeles and when I got off the plane I took one big deep breath of the smog-filled air. My eyes started to water. I began to sneeze, and I felt like a new man again.

Billions Delay Social Decision

A matter of money, [illegible] millions of dollars, will [illegible] congress short of a [illegible] social matter, according to Editorial Research Reports (ERR). The matter involved is the recommendation, from several sources, for a guaranteed minimum income.

The recommendation will hit an economic snag due to increasing government spending which ERR conservatively pegs at $125 billion in fiscal 1967 and as much as $140 billion in fiscal 1968. Many observers believe the ERR figure for 1968 is more likely to be seen in 1967.

But at either level of spending, Uncle Sam will not have the cash to embark upon a guaranteed minimum income plan. Such plans have surprising support even among some conservative groups, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce which has a proposal of its own.

But there are those, too, who will view the coming of the guaranteed minimum income with grave misgivings. It is not a very [illegible] jump from the government's alleged responsibility for a guaranteed minimum income to the individual's conviction that the world owes him a living.

This is the danger that is a part of any such program. We have a great many welfare programs in this country and many social [illegible] tion programs and with them we always [illegible] the danger of destroying individual initiative.

To some degree and in certain circumstances, it is a danger that we all have to face but where or what is the end of the line? Assistance for unfortunate people either in the form of direct aid or improved opportunity is one thing but a guaranteed minimum income is another.

Of great importance would be the limitations, if any, that would be placed upon the minimum income. If it is a guaranteed minimum with no strings attached, it would seem to be an open invitation to individual non-[illegible]

[illegible] the vast majority of people [illegible] the invitation as they could [illegible] on their own than they could under government subsidy. But it does seem that the individual offered a choice between working for $4,000 or $5,000 a year and loafing for the same amount might well choose the latter.

It might be wondered, too, when the government would ever be in a financial position to absorb such a monetary load on its budget. [illegible] a minimum income program would [illegible] billions of dollars a year and even [illegible] the Vietnam war would not make [illegible] an extent.

Even by arriving at the serious talking stage, the minimum income plan demonstrates the fact that social and political concepts are rapidly changing. We must constantly change, of course, but we never have any assurance that we are taking the right fork in the road.

The Nation Frankly Looks at Romney

Provocative EDITORIAL — Topic in News FEATURE

A team of Knight Newspaper reporters searched the nation to get frank opinions about Gov. George Romney's presidential prospects.

By ROBERT S. BOYD

George Romney has it within his power to capture the Republican presidential nomination in 1968.

A nationwide survey by a team of eight Knight newspaper reporters shows that the dynamic Michigan governor can probably win his party's top prize if he wants it.

But first, Republican leaders, workers and political observers from Maine to California made clear, Romney must do three things:

—He must go out and work for the nomination. He cannot stay in Lansing and get it.

—He must overcome potentially fatal weaknesses in his political organization and in his handling of issues, especially on foreign policy.

—He must lay to rest serious doubts about his personality as a human being and his capacities as a future President.

"George Romney is a great salesman," a Midwestern editor commented. "But I sometimes wonder about his product — himself."

Victory for Romney is by no means certain. The latest opinion polls showing him leading every other possible condidate among rank and file Republicans could turn out to be a will-o'-the-wisp.

In fact, the survey turned up evidence that Richard M. Nixon is still considerably more popular than Romney with the party regulars.

Forecasts are dangerous so early in the game. But at this point, Romney seems able to count on the probable support of from 450 to 500 delegates. Nixon appears to be leading in states with 500 to 550 convention votes.

None of these December leanings is solid. Romney's or Nixon's support could melt away next summer.

Obviously, Romney is going to need help to win the nomination. The big news turned up by the Knight survey is that help is available — in almost every corner of the nation. He need only ask for it.

The Northeast, which contains half the votes he'll need, is already mostly behind him. His problem is to avoid chasing Eastern support away.

Romney . . . man in motion for '68.

The Southwest and West —original Goldwater country — shows an astonishing willingness to accept Romney. Even conservative Texas and California can do business with him, local Republicans said.

The Northwest and the Mormon enclaves in the mountain states are Romney's.

The south is a black spot. Dixie's heart belongs to Nixon. But even here, Romney could crack off 40 to 50 delegates around the fringes of the South.

The vast heartland of America, from the Rockies to the Appalachians, holds the key to victory. Big crucial midwestern states like Ohio, Illinois, and Wisconsin are holding back, watching to see how Romney does and whither the wind blows. The Plains states display a surprising enthusiasm for him.

In state after state — even in the Deep South — Republicans had this message for Romney:

"Now is the time for him to start moving. He should be getting out here, shaking hands, talking more about issues, letting the party people who select the convention delegates get a look at him."

Ironically, conservative Republicans frequently speak more favorably of Romney these days than the liberals and the moderates who made up the bulk of his early strength.

In talks with conservatives, they focused on Romney's strong points: his success in business, his opposition to big central government, his emphasis on individual initiative and responsibility, his high moral tone, the sharp contrast between his personal style and Lyndon Johnson's.

Romney need not worry too much about what now seems his biggest drawback in conservative quarters—his failure to support Barry Goldwater in 1964. Except in the Deep South, that sin can be easily forgiven, most conservative sources made clear.

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania personally counseled Romney to pull up his socks on Vietnam this fall. Sen.-Elect Charles Percy of Illinois plans to do so shortly.

Even though these men see flaws in Romney, they are prepared to hold their noses and go for him because, they say, he seems at this point to have the best chance of uniting the party and beating President Johnson.

—The fierce Republican thirst for victory, whetted anew by the gains of 1966.

—Romney's record as a three-time winner, with ample coat-tails for fellow Republicans.

—Nixon's record as a two-time loser, who hasn't won an election on his own since 1950.

Conservatives and liberals from every state insisted they are sick of dying for principle and want to win. "Pragmatism" is the GOP's magic word this winter; friendship and ideology be damned.

Romney personally has sought advice from two former national GOP chairmen, Leonard Hall of New York and Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

The survey picked up traces of Romney operatives at work all across the country: in New Hampshire, New York, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico. Even in darkest Mississippi, Romney men had written for a list of Republican county chairmen.

Volunteer, citizen - type Romney clubs have popped up in Michigan, Utah and Texas. Others are in formation. Requests for Romney bumper stickers have come from as far as California and as near as Ohio.

Romney's chief money man, Detroit oil magnate Max M. Fisher, heads the United Jewish Appeal and is one of the most influential men in American jewry. Romney, incidentally, addressed the UJA in New York Thursday night.

The head of Romney's volunteers in his Michigan campaign, Richard Headlee, is a former president of the National Jaycees, and well-connected with young business groups.

Republicans for progress, the Ripon Society, and the National Negro Republican Assembly — small but potentially influential groups —are sympathetic to Romney.

Western support, is available for Romney.

Gov.-elect David Cargo of New Mexico is for him. Sen.-elect Mark Hatfield and Gov.-elect Tom McCall of Oregon are reported willing to help. The Mormons, with their tremendous wealth and political muscle in Utah and the mountain states, are solidly in back of their fellow apostle.

Kansas GOP patriarch Alf Landon, the 1936 presidential nominee, said he plans to work for Romney. Outgoing Gov. William Avery of Kansas and Gov. John Love of Colorado are leaning strongly toward him.

Other potential Romney supporters in Colorado, Nebraska, Washington, Minnesota and even Texas said they were waiting the proper moment to surface.

The governors of 10 states, with 322 convention delegates, are believed ready to cooperate, if Romney satisfies them he can win.

The survey turned up widespread doubts, however, about the quality of Romney's political organization.

Now that Romney is the apparent front-runner for the nomination, the pulling and hauling on the man who might be the next President of the U.S. has become intense.

Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan of California, for example, let it be known Romney should "repent" for failing to support Goldwater. But one powerful Eastern liberal warned that he'd drop Romney if he "repented."

The possibility of trouble at home looms. After six fabulously prosperous years auto sales are lagging. As auto workers are laid off, Michigan revenues sag and welfare costs soar. A financial pinch in Michigan in late 1967 or early 1968 could be especially embarrassing for Romney.

The Knight Newspapers' transcontinental survey shows that while Republicans aren't sure yet who they want to carry their banner in 1968, they are ready and willing to take "a long hard look" at George Romney.

Big Red's Coming

Denham Springs, La.—Being Nebraskans at heart we are elated about the coming Sugar Bowl game. We are proud that so many Huskers are planning to come to New Orleans to support our great football team.

We hope all Nebraskans that can come will don the Big Red and show everyone down this way how loyal we are to our team! It's bound to be a great game, so let's paint the town red.

To our great Husker team: it's been unseasonably dry and dusty here, so come on down and let's give 'Bama the Big Red broom!

Deer Anatomy

Lincoln — Congratulations to Dr. Webster on getting his deer. (Sunday Journal and Star, Nov. 6). It must have been an unusual deer since it stated he shot it in the collarbone area.

I have hunted, shot, dressed out and cut up many deer since I started hunting in 1954 and I have never seen a deer with a clavicle or collarbone.

This is as amusing as the 1966 Game Division publication, "Field Dressing Big Game" from the Nebraska Game, Forestation and Parks Commission.

It states that you get "T-bone steaks from the rib section." T-bone steaks come from the short loin region of the loin and rib steaks come from the rib section.

Perhaps they need to take my Animal Science 20e course taught on Thursday evenings of the second semester at the University of Nebraska. At least they would learn to identify and properly prepare cuts of meats.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

The Aurora News-Register set the tone for Nebraska newspaper editorialists, reviewing problems in higher education, highways and taxes: "Members of Nebraska's Unicameral," it said, "will have their work cut out for them when they meet in Lincoln in January."

On taxes, the News-Register continued to predict "that Nebraska will wind up with the most gosh-awful tax mess that this Republic has witnessed since its founding." Budget requests from state agencies, it said, have been "unrealistic."

Also unrealistic, the Norfolk Daily News said, are "those who believed that removing the property tax as a source of state revenue could result in stripping from state government the responsibility for equalizing property tax assessments . . ."

The Fremont Tribune noted a proposal to merge the Dept. of Roads' highway cash fund with the state general fund. "Whether the shortcomings (of the earmarking practice) are so extensive as to throw a designation of highways into the Legislature's pork barrel is a good question."

Outgoing Gov. Frank Morrison drew criticism from the Scottsbluff Star-Herald and the Alliance Daily Times-Herald for replacing Henry Freed of Chadron by Lincoln banker Gene Eaton on the State Normal Board.

"Chadron and other western Nebraskans have been given a shoddy handling by Morrison in depriving the immediate area of Normal Board representation," the Times-Herald said.

The Star-Herald noted that "one of the four state teacher's colleges is located in Chadron, and . . . development of the Chadron college over the past several years, coincident to some extent with the Freed term of office, has been rather extensive."

On another western Nebraska matter, the Keith County News (Ogallala) praised development of an historical attraction in Alliance, expansion of Fort Robinson State Park, expansion of Scouts Rest Ranch in North Platte and plans for a state historical park at Ash Hollow. "The more attractions western Nebraska can boast, the better off all western Nebraska communities will be. And the more attractions, the more likely the towns will be able to stop tourists—including fellow Nebraskans," the News said.

Johnson in Trouble

There is general agreement that the election returns and the polls which have followed them show that President Johnson is in deep political trouble. No one can say exactly how deep the trouble is.

Lippmann on Issues
EDITORIAL FEATURE

Lippmann

In the White House the optimistic guess is that the incumbent President is usually re-elected (although Herbert Hoover was not re-elected) and that Johnson would be re-elected if he had the luck to find Richard Nixon running against him.

The more common view, which is held by many who are very close to the President, is that unless the fighting can be wound up by the end of 1967 Johnson could be defeated by any reputable Republican, such as Gov. George Romney, and that in any event the Democratic nomination will be worthless.

Guessing about what may happen two years hence is a very uncertain business. How many were there in 1950, for example, who were at all sure that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower would be nominated and elected in 1952. His many admirers were Democrats, and no one could be really certain that he would become a Republican President.

And who would have guessed that after his triumphant election Lyndon Johnson's popularity would fall to a point that there are some observers today who wonder whether he will not withdraw before 1968?

In attempting to guess what may happen in 1968 there are, it seems, three main variables. The first is the course of the war and the secondary consequences of the war, the high cost of living and the virtual stoppage of internal development and reform. The second variable is how Johnson will react to the trouble he is now in. The third variable is whether the Republican Party will know how to exploit the dazzling opportunity which is open to it.

As for the course of the war, the most optimistic, responsible view, for example that of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, is that in 1967 the Viet Cong may give up large-scale operations and return to guerrilla warfare. In view of the enormous superiority of American weapons, Lodge's guess would appear to be a reasonable forecast. But it offers little or no prospect that the war will end and American troops can be disengaged.

There are wishful thinkers who say that if large-scale combat is terminated in 1967 "final victory" (whatever that may mean) will be in sight. All the reports I hear from observers who have talked to the principals in Saigon agree on the expectation that the guerrilla war would probably last from 10 to 20 years.

It is reasonable to assume that the war, now being fought, will not be terminated—by victory or by negotiation—in 1967. It is, therefore, extremely probable that the whole package of programs known as the Great Society will not be carried forward and will be cut back.

The second variation in the political calculation is the personality of Lyndon Johnson. There are expert observers of politics and of the President who think that he would choose to overcome the unpopularity of the war and its consequences by stirring up a war fever. He is certainly toying with the idea, as his most recent aspersions on his critics show—aspersions, be it said, by the head of an administration which is living in a glass house and should be careful about throwing stones.

Since conducting the war as at present will not do, since arousing a great war fever would divide the country bitterly, wreck the Democratic Party for a generation and would probably not cure Johnson's political troubles, we must look at the other course which is open to him. It is to recognize the fact that while our intervention has prevented a defeat of the South Vietnamese government it has achieved only a military stalemate in Indochina.

Opinion Analysis Of Author

President Johnson is the Commander-in-Chief in a war, the declared purposes of which have not been achieved and are not within range of being achieved.

It is the President's refusal to recognize the military and political reality that stands in the way of a cease fire and a negotiated settlement. It is not easy for Lyndon Baines Johnson to swallow the bitter pill of recognizing the fact that he is in a war which he cannot win.

It would take a man of noble stature and of the highest moral courage to do that. There is no reason to think that Johnson is such a man. But if he were, if he dared to settle the war, he would find himself riding a surging wave of confidence and gratitude and popularity at home and abroad.

The third variable in the political calculation is whether, as the Johnson administration flounders in its quagmire, the Republicans will unite under someone who does not divide and, in fact, unites the voters. That is to say, on another Dwight Eisenhower.

It is easy to argue that none of the Republican possibilities now being mentioned is such a man. But the truth is, I believe, that in politics necessity is sometimes the mother of invention, and if the only way out of the quagmire is to elect a Republican it is not improbable that there will come forward a Republican to elect.

New State Office Building

Townsend Says Size Needs to Be Doubled

Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend has recommended to Gov. Frank Morrison the proposed new state office building be twice as big as had been contemplated.

That would be, then, a structure with 200,000 square feet of office space.

Its cost would exceed $4 million.

Townsend advised Morrison in a memorandum that a survey made early this year revealed a need for at least 70,000 square foot of office space for all state agencies That would be even after the Dept. of Roads and a pair of laboratories leave the Statehouse for new buildings next year or early in 1968.

Those movements out will permit the return to the Capitol of agencies now located in rented space throughout Lincoln.

'Realistic Figure'

Townsend said the 70,000 square feet requirement was later upped to 100,000 square feet.

In his memo, Townsend said "at this time, with a number of new programs underway and the prospect of new tax laws which will require considerable expansion of the tax commissioner's office, a more realistic figure would be a building of 200,000 square feet."

That should be adequate for state government, according to the director, "at least through 1975."

The 1965 Legislature established a four-year .20 of a mill state property tax levy to pay for the building as well as a $650,000 lab structure for the Depts. of Health and Agriculture.

The total tax take, estimated at $3 million, combined with $1,250,000 in transfers from cash funds, still would not be sufficient to pay for the lab unit as well as a state office building of the size Townsend says is now necessary

Site Problem

A start on the new building was put off last year when the Morrison administration decided to buck along to the 1967 Legislature the question of exact location.

Air Force Caretaker Duties at Lincoln Base to Be Ended in January

The caretaker duties of the short-lived 4255th Lincoln Air Force Base squadron will all be over Jan. 3.

Its inactivation would come a day earlier, but Monday will be observed as a legal (New Year's Day) holiday.

The 4255th was organized last June 25 when the base's support groups moved out, leaving this small band of Air Force men to hold the fort.

Col. William Bartlett, top man in the group of 30 officers and men here today, says nothing much is left to do Jan. 3 except close and lock the door for the last time.

One of the squadron's final jobs has been "retiring" records of all that his happened at this big former SAC base in its years of top activity.

The boxes of documents will be sent to Air Force depots for storage. Some will be retained a year, others indefinitely.

Col Bartlett, Lt. Kenneth Townsend and M.Sgt. Perry E. Skaggs, scheduled for retirement then, will remain here for the extra month as Offutt Air Force Base assignees.

Strategic Air Command at Offutt also will continue to keep several civilian workers at the base.

Americans Want South Viets to Do Fighting

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and the people of the United States do not see eye to eye on one important issue — which nation should assume chief responsibility for fighting the war in Vietnam.

Premier Ky is reported to want the United States to accept a greater role in the fighting both in the North and in the Mekong Delta.

Ky's plan does not sit well with typical Americans interviewed in recent days in a nationwide survey.

Gallup Poll

cross-section of the U.S. public was asked to vote on:

1. Between 1 and 1½ million men in South Vietnam are now in the army or are of draft age. The United States would do everything it can to train these men and troops to fight.
2. As each group of 100,000 are trained for combat duty, the same number of U.S. troops would be withdrawn. By the end of a year, under this plan, most, if not all, of the U.S. troops in Vietnam would be withdrawn.
3. The United States would continue to supply the South Vietnamese with war materials and would continue to help in the economic development of of the country. But the actual fighting would be left to the South Vietnamese.

After each respondent had read the plan carefully, he was asked this question:

"In general, do you approve or disapprove of this suggestion?"

Approve	58%
Disapprove	24
No opinion	18

Congressional leaders and military experts may not feel that such a plan is feasible. However, the findings clearly show the direction of the thinking of the American people.

The population of South Vietnam is estimated to be about 16 million. Taking account of the areas now controlled by the Viet Cong, the Ky government now controls about 10 million persons of whom approximately 1 to 1½ million are eligible to serve in the armed forces.

The plan which was presented to the public for its reactions grew out of earlier surveys dealing with attitudes toward the Vietnam conflict.

Results of many surveys probing the attitudes of American citizens toward the Vietnamese conflict show that the typical American takes the position that we are in Vietnam to help the South Vietnamese — primarily this is their war — not ours. We are helping them; they are not helping us, except in the broad sense that communist aggression must be resisted in all parts of the world.

Those approving of the plan tested in the latest survey argue primarily that:

(1) The war is basically a South Vietnamese war.

(2) We should do everything we can to save the lives of American soldiers.

(3) Such a plan would let us withdraw and still save face.

A chief reason of those who disapprove of the plan is that the South Vietnamese are incapable of handling the situation themselves. A 41-year-old accountant said: "I do not believe these troops can fight war as effectively as American troops. They were on the verge of losing the war when we first sent troops there and replacing our troops with raw recruits certainly is no way to win."

Bomb Accident Kills 16 Americans

Red Attack 'Could Signal' Invasion

Saigon (UPI) — A U.S. Marine plane Saturday accidentally dropped two 250-pound bombs on a company of marine troops, killing 16 Americans and wounding 11 others. A short distance away, close to the demilitarized border zone between South and North Vietnam, Communist troops rained mortar shells on the leathernecks in what U.S. spokesmen said could signal another invasion attempt.

The Marines have been battling North Vietnamese troops in the area for several months. The main action Saturday took place around the "rockpile" a high boulder-strewn hill that commands the six-mile wide demilitarized zone and its three major valleys used for Communist infiltration.

Spokesmen said the two bombs fell on American troops when the plane was raiding a North Vietnamese position. They either bounced off a ridge of boulders, or fell about 300 yards from their intended target.

It was the worst single incident of its kind involving U.S. troops in the Vietnam war.

Mortar Attack

Spokesmen said the mortar attack took place 10 miles northwest of Dong Ha and about three miles south of the border.

More than 50 mortar shells whistled into the base camp of the 4th Marine Battalion. The leathernecks fired back with 81mm mortars and called in artillery.

The spokesmen said American casualties in the attack were light.

The fighting was part of Operation Prairie, the spoiling operation that began Aug. 3 and beat back a Communist attempt to spill troops into the northern provinces.

Intelligence reports indicated the Reds were preparing for another invasion attempt, having stockpiled ammunition and supplies in the demilitarized zone.

Clouds, Rain

Low clouds and rain blanketed the mountainous area, masking North Vietnamese movements and hampering U.S. air power.

The bombing tragedy occured as 4,000 more U.S. troops landed in Vietnam to bring the American armed strength in the war to more than 366,000 men and 18 supersonic Supersabre jets flew in to boost U.S. air might

In Saigon, Viet Cong guerrillas were thwarted a second straight time in an attempt to blow up a Saigon river bridge after the Communists set off two explosions at a huge U.S. ammunition dump in an apparent coordinated bid to cripple the flow of U.S. arms and supplies to the battlefields.

Italian Head Pardons Nine

Rome (AP) — President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy has pardoned nine inmates of a Florence jail who were credited with saving prison officers and their families in the Nov. 4 flood.

The men were prisoners in the Maria Teresa jail in Florence when it was flooded with up to 12 feet of water.

Police said the men swam into the prison workshop to get ladders and acetylene torches, then cut bars over windows of a prison building and rescued the families of two prison officials and two guards.

Eleven of the 19 rescued persons were children.

Rapid Rise in Lung Cancer Brings Warning

Washington (AP)—A warning that the rapid rise in lung cancer cases and deaths may offset progress being made in control of other types of cancer was sounded tonight by the National Advisory Cancer Council.

"The National Advisory Cancer Council strongly recommends that more active steps be taken in calling public attention to the enormous man-made epidemic of lung cancer now extant in this country as a result of cigaret smoking," the council said.

"Abstinence from smoking affords the best protection against lung cancer at present," the council asserted.

Otherwise, the first comprehensive report prepared by the council since it was established in 1937 says that although cancer is still on the increase in this country, more people are being cured than ever before because of advances in medical science.

The Public Health Service released the report.

Among other things it says:

"Research has greatly expanded knowledge of the malignant process, yet the inception of cancer remains a mystery.

"In such a climate of paradox, assessment of progress calls for the delineation of net gains through advances in many different fields of scientific investigation, in professional education and training, in medical practice, and in public health and public education.

"Where progress lags in any of these areas, valuable ground is given up and the goal of ultimate conquest of concer recedes farther into the shadow of doubt."

Wilson, Lynch To Meet Dec. 19

London (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said Friday he will meet Ireland's new prime minister, Jack Lynch, in London Dec. 19 "to discuss matters of interest to the two countries."

It was presumed Lynch is anxious for a direct briefing on Britain's new moves toward joining the European Common Market.

Realignment

Norris Will Not Oppose

Waives 'First Refusal' Rights

By DEL SNODGRASS

Norris Public Power Dist. of Beatrice has become the first rural district to consent to the proposed realignment of three of the state's five major electric utilities.

Another rural, the Cedar-Knox County Rural Public Power Dist of Hartington in northeast Nebraska, also reported it has no opposition to the proposal

Norris' consent came in the form of a waiver of its right of "first refusal" to the sale of Loup River Public Power District's properties in the Nebraska Public Power System (NPPS) setup to Consumers Public Power Dist.

Under the realignment, Consumers would replace Loup as a co-partner with the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation Dist in the NPPS, which wholesales power in the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska excluding the Omaha area.

In turn, Loup would become a self-sufficient utility generating and transmitting electricity to both wholesale and retail customers in four east-central counties — Platte, Boone, Nance and Colfax.

Original Contracts

The "first refusal" right refers to the original contracts between NPPS and the rurals when the support of the rurals was obtained by NPPS to finance the system's birth

The contracts provide that in the event of a proposed sale or other disposition of Loup's properties in NPPS, the rurals have the right of "first refusal" of the sale to protect their own interests.

Loup, Consumers and Platte have asked all 42 rural districts, cooperatives or associations headquartered or operating in Nebraska to sign "first refusal" waivers in order to implement the realignment.

The waiver signed by Norris, which has been friendly with NPPS in Nebraska's public power wars, is on file in Loup's offices in Columbus, according to Loup General Manager John Preston

Farmers Need Wet Snowfall

United Press International

A lack of snowfall this winter would deal a multi-million dollar blow to Nebraska's 1967 winter wheat crop, government farm experts reported Saturday

Inadequate precipitation would also damage pasture lands and pose a threat to cattle herds in many areas, they added

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said subsoil as well as surface moisture is short throughout Nebraska

It said wheat planted in lighter soils in Western Nebraska has already become vulnerable to wind erosion

There is cause for alarm with out winter grains because of the moisture shortage," said division chief Arnold V. Nordquist

Snow Needed

"The wheat crop is not going into the winter months in optimim condition We need a good wet snowfall or rain to pack the crop"

The State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) noted some parts of Southeast Nebraska suffered from drought last summer.

It said precipitation is needed over the winter to prevent a recurrence of the severely dry weather in the spring.

The ASCS described the critical area as roughly the southern two tiers of counties where many pastures were seared by heat last June.

Six Months Made Awe-Inspiring Changes in Retarded Marty's Life

By BESS JENKINS

Marty, 10, is still retarded as he was last May when the boy left Lincoln State Hospital. To some degree, he always will be.

But the intervening months have brought awe-inspiring changes in this handsome brown-eyed child

Lincoln State Hospital psychiatrist Dr. Kenneth Hubble expresses it this way:

"This isn't the same boy who walked in here today whom I last saw six months ago as our hospital patient.

"That one had the shriveled face of an old man Marty's today is the face of a boy, healthy and happy and loved"

This isn't all that has happened to the youngster between spring and Christmas, 1966

In May, Marty had to be fed like a baby He drank his milk from a bottle

Walks, Runs

In December, he feeds himself with a spoon and drinks milk from a glass Sure, he's a little messy at times

In May, he fell more than he walked, even with help.

In December, most of his shuffling gait is gone. He walks and runs on his own

In May, Marty wore diapers day and night He had no bowel or bladder control.

In December, the diaper and training pants stages are past. With help from those who love him, accidents grow further apart each day.

In May, he bit his wrists.

In May he didn't talk, just screamed in childish fear.

In December, he squeals when he's happy. Words like "outside," "eat" and "love" pour out at unexpected moments. His facial expressions are another line of increasing communication.

In School

In May, there was no school for Marty.

In December, he goes each morning to TRY where he plays and learns simple things with other retarded boys and girls

'This child is lucky that they didn't have room for him at Beatrice State Home last spring," Dr. Hubble told Marty's friends as hospital staff members evaluated evidences of the boy's "startling progress"

Marty could have "become a human vegetable at Beatrice State Home by this time" in Dr Hubble's opinion Other doctors concur

Not because Beatrice doesn't care but they don't get the money they need for staff so how can they do something with nothing for the hundreds there," the doctor asked

Both he and Dr. Paul Bancroft, director of children's services at Lincoln State, are as insistent that their hospital's psychotic or mentally ill children with whom Marty lived for three months prior to May 6 were not good for him, either.

We were ruining his health, exposing him to psychotic behavior when he already has enough handicaps," Dr. Hubble explained

$29.8 Million

State Welfare Costs Show 14% Increase

By United Press International

Nebraska welfare costs increased 14% in the fiscal year ended last June 30, and totaled nearly $30 million for the first time

That was the report of State Welfare Director John Gage, who said welfare expenditures jumped from $26,132,239 last year to $29,878 158

The direct cost of welfare programs for the 12-month period amounted to $26 769 286 and $3,108,772 was spent for administration of programs

This included $10 232 788 in state funds The remainder came from the federal government

Gage said he will ask the 1967 Legislature for $22 005 382 in state funds for the two year spending period beginning next July 1

The director gave four reasons for increased welfare costs

—A medical assistance for the aged program was started in Nebraska and payments to hospitals and doctors increased.

—The maximum monthly allotment to old-age pensioners was boosted from $75 to $110

—The eligibility of children under the aid to dependent children program was extended from 16 to 18

—Permission was given for elderly aid to the needy disabled patients in nursing homes to transfer to the medical assistance for the aged program

First Institute

The Lincoln Catholic Diocese has announced the first religious education institute for religious education will be held in North Platte on March 31 and in Lincoln the following day Mrs Mary Reed Newland of Massachusetts author of books on Christian marriage, will be the guest speaker.

CLASS C LIQUOR LICENSES

City to Hold Hearings On 45 More Requests

By LEO SCHERER

Supporting strong local restrictions, the City Council has scheduled public hearings Monday on 45 more applications for liquor-by-the-drink licenses in Lincoln

The hearings are scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. in the Council chambers at City Hall.

Lincoln voters approved liquor by the drink by a 5-4 margin in the November election and the Council now is making recommendation on each application to the State Liquor Control Commission

A recommendation on each application Monday has been prepared by the Police Dept and a similar recommendation from the City-County Health Dept

Six Approvals

The first six applicants who have been given a conditional City Council okay for Class C liquor licenses returned a signed pledge surrendering their off-sale privileges

The Council had given a recommendation of approval to six of the first nine applicantions for liquor-by-the-drink licenses but had conditioned it on the basis that the applicant would voluntarily agree not to engage in the sale of liquor and beer for consumption off the premises

The State Liquor Control Commission has the final authority

Under state law, a Class C license authorizes the sale of on-sale beer and liquor and also off-sale beer and liquor.

Reluctant to sign the original, unannounced agreement for fear it would jeopardize their competitive position, four of the applicants' attorneys drafted an amendment, endorsed by the Council, which would void the agreement if the Commission grants a Class C license permitting a Lincoln licensee to sell liquor and beer both on and off sale

Meanwhile, Francis Robinson, chairman of the State Liquor Control Commission, said the Commission so far has taken no action on any Class C applications from Lincoln"

Tuesday Action

However, Robinson said that under state law the Commission legally can start taking action Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Robinson didn't comment on whether or not the Commission would uphold the Council's restriction policy

If the Commission would issue Class C licenses starting Tuesday, Lincoln could have

NSEA Names Jerry Neely Of Norfolk Pres.-Elect

Minimum salary recommendations for teachers were approved Saturday by the Nebraska State Education Assn, immediately prompting a resolution which could put teeth into a similar measure if brought up again next year

The resolution seeks a deadline for attaining minimum salary recommendations. If the recommendations are not met, the resolution provides that the Executive Committee take "appropriate action."

John E Lynch, executive secretary of the NSEA, said the ultimate action would be sanctions in which the NSEA would urge its members not to seek employment at the school which did not meet the salary requirements by the established date

'But I don't imagine this would happen unless a vote of assembly delegates approved the sanction" he said

Lesser Actions

Lesser actions could be taken, he said, including the names of schools which did not meet the requirements in the Education News, an NSEA publication

The specific minimums adopted by NSEA delegates include a starting salary of not less than $6,000 annually for a teacher with four years of college preparation and $9,000 annually after ten years of successful teaching experience.

For teachers with five years of college, the group recommended a salary of $6 600 annually and a $12,000 salary after 15 years of teaching experience

Neely Elected

Jerry Neely, a Norfolk junior high school teacher, was chosen president-elect of the NSEA. He will assume office next December

Dr Edwin Nelson, dean of Chadron State College, was installed as the 1967 president succeeding Mrs Helen Krause of Lincoln

In other action delegates supported proposed legislation to revise the State Teachers Retirement System

Revisions would include

—A formula basis for computing retirement benefits

—Teacher's contributions based on a percentage of total salary

—Increasing the contribution by the state

—A contribution by each school district in whatever amount necessary to keep the retirement system funded and actuarially sound

—Benefits from the State Teachers Retirement System which when added to Social Security would provide a retirement benefit after 30 years of service and contribution of at least 50 of a teacher's best five-year earnings

State Funds

The NSEA called for legislation to distribute state money to local school districts on the basis of equalizing educational opportunities and taxation

Neely . . . elected

Delegates also asked for legislation declaring teaching a profession and creating a Professional Teaching Practices Commission. The commission would make recommendations to the State Board of Education involving suspension and revocation of certificates.

They also asked that procedures be established "whereby professional personnel may confer consult, and discuss in good faith with the district school board matters of salaries and matters affecting professional services"

Resolutions

Other resolutions called for:

—Continuing development and financing of vocational-technical schools

—Support tenure for all teachers with a bachelor's or higher degree

—Complete separation of church and state and the use of public funds for the support of public education

—Increased understanding among boards of education, education practicioners and college personnel involved in the preparation of teachers

—Leave without salary deduction for teacher participation in approved professional and civic activities

—A duty-free lunch period each day for each full-time teacher

—A requirement that accredited schools have at least one 30 minute class period during the regular school day for pupil conferences and class preparation

At Hastings 'Foul Play' In Death Of Woman

Hastings — An autopsy Saturday indicated that an elderly Hastings woman died of foul play, Adams County Atty. Donald Brock said.

Brock, acting as county coroner, said an autopsy was performed at Lincoln General Hospital late Saturday to determine the cause of death of Mrs May Ritchie, in her 80s

Mrs. Ritchie was found dead Saturday morning in the two-room house where she lived alone, just beyond the east Hastings city limits.

Adams County Sheriff Robert Anderson said the woman might have been strangled There was evidence of a struggle, he said

The body was discovered by Lloyd Dragoo of Hastings a nephew of Mrs Ritchie and her guardian

The Adams County sheriff's office and the Safety Patrol criminal division were investigating the apparent slaying, Brock said.

'Ball of Fire' Seen in State

A ball of fire' believed to have been a meteor was sighted from Lincoln to as far south as Joplin Mo Saturday night

In Nebraska the sightings were especially frequent in the southeast including the Fairbury area

Patrol troopers in Missouri and Kansas said they had received numerous telephone calls about the apparent meteor.

No Surprise

State School Enrollment Static

By DICK HERMAN

For the second year in a row Nebraska's overall public school enrolment shows no growth

State Education Dept chief statistician William Schindler reported the official 1966-67 enrolment in all public schools to be 318 819

This figure is 62 students under the 1965-66 population mark and 406 boys and girls below the 1964-65 record enrolment of 319,225.

Schindler anticipates that when private school pupil numbers are completely in total state enrolment will be just about what it was last year — 379 323

Church Schools

There are approximately 60 500 youngsters in Nebraska's non-public schools almost all church sponsored institutions

That Nebraska's public school enrolment didn't rise was no surprise In fact a year ago Schindler made an educated guess as to what the 1966-67 enrolment would be His estimate proved high by only three-thousands of 1%

While the gross public school enrolment remained static, there still were sharp fluctuations in some districts

Lincoln's student body dropped down to 28,638, a slippage of 786 students from the previous year That decline was in addition to a previous Lincoln enrolment dip of 586

For the first time in recent history the Lincoln Board of Education has abandoned its traditional 'open' high school policy Sophomores to be in the Lincoln East High School District are being required to attend classes in the new school next fall That will insure sufficient enrolment to justify the proposed educational program

A pattern of relative stability is beginning to be seen in sharper focus in the various public school grades for the state as a whole.

For example there are 26-993 first graders now against 26 963 one year ago 26 706 the year before that and 26-796 in 1963-64

What this means, except in some particular communities, is that future physical plant growth may be more moderate, influenced mainly by the need for facility replacements or large-scale reorganizations

In some parts of Nebraska school buildings of relatively recent vintage have been virtually vacated because of dwindling school-age populations

Two More Years

With varied success State Education Dept consultants especially caution rural school district patrons about floating bond issues for new buildings whose need may vanish in a few years

Hike in Aid To Children Is Advised

'Ban Cigaret Machine Sales'

Study groups of the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth have recommended legislation which would among other things increase Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments and ban the sale of cigarets in vending machines.

The study subcommittee reports will be formally submitted to the state committee Monday at a public hearing in Lincoln. The committee will review the recommendations and adopt a legislative program later.

The proposed ADC legislation would set maximum monthly payments under the welfare program at $110 for the first dependent child and $30 for each additional child.

Presently, the ADC monthly maximums are $100 for the first child, $15 for the next three and $10 for each child beyond four.

Study chairman Richard Guilford, director of the graduate school of social work at the University of Nebraska, said a survey showed that 66% of the ADC families were not receiving payments adequate to meet their minimum needs.

The 1965 Legislature rejected a bill which would have placed ADC maximums at $110 for the first dependent and $25 for each additional dependent.

Lancaster County Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Nuernberger, chairman of a subcommittee on cigaret laws, said vending machines permit young people to purchase cigarettes with ease.

He said Nebraska should follow the lead of other states which have prohibited vending machine sale of smokes.

Norris Signs Waiver

Knox manager, said his district will not sign a waiver but that he understands no signing means approval of the Loup property sales.

Uncertain

Despite the precedent set by Norris and Cedar-Knox, the positions which will be taken by the other rurals remained uncertain because of a situation involving one rural, the Cornhusker Public Power Dist. of Columbus.

Cornhusker is in direct conflict with Loup because it now operates in the same four counties proposed as Loup's territory.

Efforts between the Loup and Cornhusker managers to agree on some type of consolidation of their boards reportedly have proved unsuccessful.

Dil Blatchford of Columbus, manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation & Transmission Cooperative (G&T) which represents 24 rurals, was not immediately available for comment on what position other rurals may take on the "first refusal" waivers.

But Leland Kitt of Palisade, president of the Nebraska Rural Electric Assn. (NREA) which represents many of the same rurals, said he personally believes no other rurals will consent to anything which would be detrimental to Cornhusker in any way.

Meanwhile, some sources in the public power field speculated that both the rurals and NPPS may be bluffing in a game of poker to see which concessions the other will make.

The rurals and NPPS, for instance, are at odds over wheeling rights (permitting the rurals to use NPPS lines to bring in power from outside sources), rates, penalties and recognizing G&T as the agency authorized to make a master power purchase contact with the rurals.

Some observers believe both NPPS and the rurals will have to "give in" on some points to make the realignment a reality and ward off action by the 1967 Legislature.

No more baby bottles for Marty . . . he's on his own today at meal times.

Where, then, has Marty been since last May?

At Americana Nursing Center here, with the distinction of being the youngest patient and only child this or any of the other 23 Americana Nursing Centers scattered over the Midwest has ever had.

How has it worked?

The two doctors think Marty's dramatic progress speaks for itself. As for Americana:

"We hope the day never comes when Marty has to leave us, and I speak for our 40 senior guests and staff." Americana Administrator Blair Smestad told the hospital gathering.

If Marty has benefitted from love and concern surrounding him at Americana, so have the much older residents from having someone young like Marty around them, says Smestad.

"He's everyone's boy."

The administrator, who drives Marty back and forth to school each day, credits TRY for most of the boy's progress this last half of 1966.

TRY is the volunteer preschool program preaching and practicing a "train the retarded young" philosophy here for several years despite its own handicap of finances.

Others instrumental in getting Marty a chance at a brighter future, however, says it's everything in his round-the-clock life today that's reversed the pendulum in a happier direction for the boy.

Normal Chain

"This really isn't any miracle but a normal chain of events if a retarded child is placed in the right atmosphere in time," Dr. Hubble says.

He knows about the mentally retarded child as well as the mentally ill. He is the father of one.

If nothing halts Marty's progress, Dr. Hubble is convinced the boy will become a man trained to simple work that "could almost pay his board and room."

Dr. Bancroft suggests that those who took up Marty's cause "may have saved the state as well as the child. He could cost Nebraska taxpayers about $300,000 as a lifetime Beatrice resident."

It takes $9 a day in Lancaster County tax funds to give Marty his home and family at Americana. State hospital rates are the same. Beatrice State Home costs $4 a day.

Broken Home

Marty, from a broken family, is mentally retarded because of parental blood incompatability. The transfusion needed by any RH negative baby like Marty came too late in Turkey, where he was born, to help him.

The brain damage resulting handed the appealing lad these lifetime handicaps: mental retardation, spastic or stiff arms and legs caused by stiffened muscles, and epilepsy.

Both Lincoln State Hospital doctors admit they had doubts that Marty would fit in the senior population of Americana or any nursing home when first it was proposed, though "we wanted to get the child away from our psychotics."

Realizing these fears were groundless as they visited with the new Marty, both men started asking if more nursing homes ready to welcome still more Martys might not be a new approach in helping many retarded children.

Marty will never really know how many interested individuals and representatives of private and public agencies pooled their energies to help him escape a helpless life.

But others, such as an observing mental retardation authority from Omaha, already do.

In his book, these dozen or more Lincoln men and women on Marty's team have given a good accounting on the Bible's counsel to do for Him by doing for others.

liquor-by-the-drink before the first of the year in many new outlets.

Mrs. Helen Boosalis, Council vice chairman, said she didn't feel the Council restriction agreement was an attempt by the Council to protect the city's off-sale beer and liquor stores.

"I personally feel the intention was to impose the type of controls on the liquor outlets that the citizens might have preferred," said Mrs. Boosalis. The agreement is "a way of having good controls if this is possible," she said.

Mrs. Boosalis said she personally felt the agreement is fair and it wasn't the Council "wouldn't have adopted it."

Under the latest grouping, recommendations of approval by the Police Dept. came on 16 on-and off-sale beer applications, nine bottle clubs and two hotels.

However, denial went to the Council on six on-and off-sale beer applications, five bottle clubs, and three bowling alleys.

There has been withdrawal of eight applications for Class C license.

Application Filed By Game Commission

The Game Commission has filed application for purchase of two tracts of state-owned school land in western Nebraska.

The parcels include 280 acres near Smith Lake, 23 miles south of Rushville in Sheridan County, and 73.75 acres near Cottonwood Lake, one-half mile south of Merriman in Cherry County.

A 1965 law gave the Game Commission authority to purchase up to 640 acres of school land yearly.

Willard Barbee, assistant commission director said the [illegible] option will not be exercised this year.

The commission is conducting [illegible] negotiations with the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

Maybe this isn't cricket. Sunday being a day of tranquility and repose. But . . . a proposal being quietly explored as a possible 1967 legislative bill calls for imposition of a uniform, statewide property tax levy.

Popular passage on Nov. 8 of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation's constitutional amendment prohibited a property tax for state government revenue purposes ONLY. It didn't, so some legal sources supposedly have advised, rule out a statewide property tax for support of non-state government public services.

The proposal reportedly being talked concerns a statewide property tax of several mills raising money for distribution back to school districts. So a state property tax would become the state aid dollar source.

Several years back, Dick Brown of the Nebraska State School Boards Assn. figured out a uniform statewide property tax levy of less than 30 mills would finance all of Nebraska's public schools, totally replacing several thousand local school district levies.

Under this interesting arrangement, all tangible property owners in Nebraska would be taxed proportionately for the support of education, assessed values presumably being completely equalized.

Headaches Ahead

Few citizens really appreciate the enormous job ahead, tooling up for administering a state sales or income tax. In other states where the tax systems were enacted, it was almost always possible to "cabbage" personnel off an existing state tax enforcement organization to secure at least a skeleton staff.

But Nebraska's now defunct state property tax essentially was administered by county officials. There just aren't sufficient troops in the state tax commissioner's office to transfer over for supervision of a sales and/or income tax. Nebraska must go out and recruit. That's no overnight assignment at a period when time is a very pressing consideration.

Also, more space than is available in the Statehouse certainly will be necessary and don't overlook the need to establish four or five district state tax offices outside of Lincoln. At these taxpayers could get answers to their questions. District offices also would be home bases for state tax auditors.

In One Paragraph

The report is Gov.-elect Norbert Tiemann's executive assistant, Clayton Yeutter, will take permanent residence this week in a space office near Gov. Frank Morrison's suite.

How many people know that Alliance Sen. George Gerdes' maternal grandfather was a government scout on the frontier?

With state retirement systems chief Glenn Anderson bowing out, the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds must name a successor. That action could come at a board meeting Monday.

Only three of those 109 non-earned and erroneously issued University of Nebraska September payroll warrants have not yet been returned or otherwise accounted for, says Vice Chancellor Joseph Soshnik. About $1,509 is involved.

There's interest among some senators whether Dr. Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk, newly-elected State Board of Education member, will seek to continue as a registered lobbyist for the Assn. of Nebraska Taxpayers.

Given up—the State Education Dept.'s ambition to obtain part of the Sioux Army Depot, west of Sidney, as a sheltered workshop for mentally and physically handicapped.

The Dept. of Administrative Services issued a record number of warrants last month, 79,034. A year ago, the November-long accumulation was just 51,453. And the old monthly record, achieved in September, was 71,650 warrants.

Lincoln Rail Traffic Upped by War Effort?

There are indications that stepped-up U.S. military activity in Vietnam and elsewhere have increased rail traffic through Lincoln.

Spokesmen for railroads, however, said they could neither confirm nor deny reports of increasing war-associated rail traffic.

"Who can say whether a carload of nitrates is going into fertilizer or gunpowder?" asked an official of one of three major railroads serving Lincoln.

Spokesmen for the Burlington, Rock Island and Union Pacific lines backed off a bit from statements made a week ago that military shipments through Lincoln were "minimal" or "none."

They insisted, however, that it is impossible to assess how much of the increase in freight traffic is a result of the war in Vietnam.

Shell Production

A report in a national business magazine indicates that between 5% and 10% of all rail shipments are military-related.

Rumors persist in Lincoln that as much as 20% of all rail freight traffic going through the city are related to the war effort.

A $5.6 million contract for bomb production at the Cornhusker Ordnance Plant at Grand Island and a $1 million contract with the Brunswick Corp. to produce artillery shell components in Lincoln will without question generate some military freight traffic in the state.

"It's impossible to measure" how much of the freight that goes through Lincoln is related to the Vietnam war, said a Rock Island spokesman.

"It would take a pretty good study to determine that, and so far as I know we have made no such study."

An official of the Union Pacific said: "For security reasons, the military wouldn't tell us" and the only way to tell for sure would be to analyze the weight bill for each car. "We don't have the time or the manpower to do that."

From the Burlington came the statement that "the amount identifiable as military is slight indeed," but only what is "processed and completed" is identifiable.

A shipment of steel, for example, can be used for any of a number of things, the spokesman said—military or non-military.

Do you know that a Lincoln organization, Miller-Warden-Wester, is engineering consultant and supervising construction of a two-lane road between Bethlehem and Jerusalem?

Hoskins

—Or that its parent group Harold Hoskins & Associates, are consulting engineers for installation of 4,000 miles of underground cable for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.?

—Or that Western Laboratories, Inc., another "family" firm specializing in materials engineering, fights rice paddies as soil and pavement design consultant with Miller-Warden-Western on the Tokyo-Nogaya segment of a Japanese four-lane expressway?

—Or that Thomas, Dean and Hoskins, another affiliate incorporated in Great Falls, Mont. was engineering consultant for Great Falls' $8 million street and sewage job?

—Or that Hoskins-Stippich, an architectural-engineering group, completes the five firms based here for some years and known as Harold Hoskins & Associates and component organizations?

"It's not surprising that the average person doesn't know we're here or what we do, for our product is professional services taken wherever they are needed," said Harold Hoskins, president of the parent organization

He heads the modern-day firm, satrted in 1944 after Hoskins and the late Wardner Scott as partners formed Harold Hoskins & Associates.

Origin of the parent company goes back to 1869 when Capt. N. S. Scott settled in Lincoln to open a surveying and engineering practice.

The four other groups affiliated today with Hoskins & Associates appeared on the scene one by one after 1950.

Until recent weeks, it wasn't easy to find the Hoskins affiliates. They were located in at least three different Lincoln buildings.

Headquarters

Now, for the first time, all are headquartered at the same 825 J St. address, immediately west of the future City-County building.

The results of a $110,000 remodeling project on the headquarters (the former Bruning Co. building leased by the Hoskins five) will be shown to business associates and civic officials Friday at an invitational open house.

It always will be difficult about 50% of the time to find about 50% of the 141 employees in town.

They are on the road as much if not more than shoe salesmen as they take the firms' consulting services all over the U.S. and to many parts of the world.

More than two million miles of travel is totaled up in a year's time. The firms' bill with United Airlines, for instance, was $80,000 during the past year.

At least half the personnel are highly trained engineers, geologists, economists and other professionals, backed up by more than 50 skilled technicians.

Fifty-four have bachelor of science degrees and eight, advanced degrees Twenty-four were graduated from the University of Nebraska A total of 41 different colleges were attended by the staffs. The 55 engineers are registered here and in 20 other states

$2 Million Income

Hoskins reports 95% of the five firms' gross annual $2 million income originates outside of Lincoln and the U.S. He adds:

"Most of this money coming here stays here, too; at least three-fourths of the annual $1.3 million payroll because 80% of the 135 families represented by our employes live and spend their money in Lincoln."

Miller-Warden-Western is the official international services arm for the family of firms But all five practice an interchange of personnel having the right know-how to meet needs of each project.

A University of Nebraska chemical engineering graduate and former Seabee, Paul Sonderegger, is president of the international consulting engineers firm.

In their role as engineering-architecture consultants since 1950, the Hoskins and affiliated firms (exclusive of overseas work) have provided complete engineering or special services on private and public projects valued at $400 million

This includes such projects as airfields (for example, Lincoln Air Force Base); highways and municipal street networks, sewage systems and treatment plants, waterworks, flood control and dams, diesel power and electric distributions, buried cables, pipe lines, electric power lines and bridges.

Captain Scott of the 1869 surveying firm would be amazed at the concentration of special photographic and processing equipment in the present-day operation.

Aerial photogrammetry, called the science of obtaining reliable measurements by aerial photography means, is used extensively to produce maps showing terrain and topographic features.

Hoskins firms have their own aircraft, pilot and photogrammetrist, who may "work seven days a week during spring and fall"

Best Pictures

Hoskins explains the best aerial pictures are obtained with the special, one-of-a-kind-in-Nebraska camera when there is no summer vegetation or winter snow.

The versatility of these firms continue to grow. An outdoor recreation site planning and development division is a recent consulting service addition.

The experts at its helm are young men graduated in land management, landscaping, economics, recreation and the humanities.

Some Iowa counties and Nebraska cities are among their clients and so are the Hualapai Indians of Arizona, who want to know the economic and recreational potential of their million-acre reservation on the south rim of the Grand Canyon.

The young Hoskins consultants are giving special attention in economic feasibility studies to the pinon and juniper trees on this reservation as the source of charcoal and oil.

Pinon oil, they report, can be used in manufacturing soaps and cosmetics and to color bourbon.

Schools of Future Will Have Wall-to-Wall Carpeting

By LLOYD MacDOWELL

The schoolhouse of 1980, according to Dr. H. Vaughn Phelps, superintendent of school District 66 in West Omaha, will have wall-to-wall carpeting and air-conditioning.

Efficiency of pupils increases, he told the Omaha Real Estate Board, when they work in a air-conditioned surroundings, and carpeting is cheaper because it doesn't have to be waxed and polished.

Asked whether such advantages might not produce some malcontents in areas not having them, Phelps replied, "I hope so . . . I hope we do make people want the same things for their children."

Award Is Open

It's time to nominate schools or school systems for the 1967 Pacemaker Award, sponsored by the National Education Assn. and Parade magazine, the Sunday Journal and Star's magazine supplement.

If your school is doing something unusual to promote educational excellence, this newspaper will welcome complete information about it.

Vo-Tech Plan

A movement is under way to start a vocational-technical school in northeastern Nebraska. State Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora said recently the area needed such a school to make vocational-technical training available to all the people in the state.

Stanton, Knox and Madison county boards have signed petitions to be included and several other counties are expected to follow suit soon.

A site would not be selected until a vote of the area's people establishes the school.

New Magazines

Two new publications will be of interest to educators.

The Chronicle of Higher Education is a bi-weekly newspaper published by Editorial Projects for Education, Inc., containing news of national interest to colleges and universities.

The NER Reporter is a quarterly published by National Educational Radio, devoted, as its name implies, to the use of radio in education.

Council Wants Higher Nursing Home Standards

A second attempt to revise regulations and standards for nursing or personal care homes seeking state licensure will be started Tuesday by the State Advisory Council on Hospitals and Medical Facilities.

On the advice of the attorney general's office, no grandfather clause appears or can be added to the proposed revisions.

The granfather clause for years has exempted nursing or care homes already licensed from some regulations necessary for others seeking licenses.

According to State Hospital division director Verne Pangborn, the attorney general's review of the proposed revisions in an earlier draft brought this comment:

A double standard of licensing is being maintained by the grandfather clause.

Pangborn said the regulations and standards document is much lighter than before the legal review.

Some Deleted

He explained all "permissive" standards have been deleted upon legal advice.

"The attorney general's office said there can't be suggested or permissive standards, but they must be mandatory," Pangborn reported.

Not even cleared up by the legal review is the big question of who is aged and at what age.

"We've got to discuss this and it may take legislative action to make a final determination of 'aged' official," Pangborn said.

Also unsettled is whether or not boarding homes should be licensed by the health department along with nursing and care homes, or be kept as a state agricultural department responsibility.

1968 Effect

Pangborn doesn't look for the new regulations to be in effect before January or possibly July, 1968.

He observed the Council can only recommend them to the State Health Board for adoption.

Then they must be published for distribution to affected groups before a public hearing is set by the Board, possibly by next March or April.

After that time, the regulations and standards must make another trip to the reviewing attorney general's office and governor before an effective date is set.

Baltimore (AP) — Elijah Pitts, who toiled in the shadow of Paul Hornung for years, scored two big touchdowns for Green Bay Saturday in a 14-10 victory over the stubborn Baltimore Colts, clinching the Western Conference title in the National Football League.

It was the fifth conference crown for the Packers in eight years since Vince Lombardi came west to take over the coaching job.

The gruelling battle was fought in a rainstorm that soaked most of the sell-out crowd of 60,238 at Memorial Stadium and turned the field into a mudbath.

Baltimore, making a desperate thrust, reached deep into Packer territory in the final minutes, but John Unitas fumbled and Dave Robinson recovered for Green Bay on the Packer 11

Green Bay then ran out the clock

Baltimore took a 10-7 lead into the final quarter on a one-yard touchdown plunge by Tony Lorick and a 26-yard field goal by Lou Michaels in the second period

Pitts had put the Packers out front in the first quarter on a 42-yard pass from Bart Starr following a key interception by Willie Wood of a Unitas pass.

Starr did not play in the second half, suffering what was announced as a minor injury, and 35-year-old Zeke Bratkowski led the Packers in their winning fourth quarter drive

Rising to the occasion with another display of their old blood and thunder football Green Bay marched 80 yards for the winning score eating up the clock in the final quarter

A 28-yard pass play from Bratkowski to Pitts, who made most of the yardage with a fine run after the catch got the drive going Jim Taylor and Pitts slammed into the line and Bratkowski found the veteran Max McGee on a pass that took Green Bay to the four. Pitts went over on the second of two thrusts, slipping into the end zone untouched behind some fine blocking for the final score of the day

Pitts became a starter in recent weeks after Hornung, the Packer ace for many years, suffered a pinched nerve in his neck Although Hornung recovered from the injury, Pitts retained the left halfback job and went all the way

Don Chandler converted twice but missed three field goals from the 45 47 and 30 yard lines Michaels made only one of four in this battle of missed opportunities

It was the fifth straight victory for the Packers over Baltimore including the 13-10 decision last Dec 26 in the playoff game at Green Bay on Chandler's controversial field goal

Huskers Paste Pacific, 90-78

By CURT MOSHER

Nebraska returned to its winning ways in the Coliseum Saturday night as the Cornhuskers pressed Pacific into near panic in the first half and held on for a 90-78 victory before 7 460 fans

It was the first defeat for the touring Tigers in four outings and it left Nebraska with a 2-1 mark.

It probably wouldn't have been quite like that had it not been for the Husker press, which for a seven or eight-minute span in the first half, was played just like it's drawn on the board

Trailing 11-8 six minutes deep in the game Nebraska blitzed Pacific with seven straight points all by Tom Baack and Stuart Lantz and four of them directly from steals off the press

In that first half Nebraska forced 14 mistakes out of Pacific and gained possession nine times from its press. And what's more, Pacific was able to pick up only a couple of easy buckets by breaking it.

That press hurt us" Pacific coach Dick Edwards said in gross understatement

It hurt so bad that Nebraska once held a lead of 17 points at 40-23 with four minutes remaining in the half

The picnic was over however, as Pacific played Nebraska pretty much on even terms from there on in

The victory came in spite of some miserable shooting by NU in the early minutes of the game and in spite of the loss of Willie Campbell who fouled out early in the second half.

Coach Joe Cipriano who will have only a brief meeting with his squad today to get ready for the Monday and Tuesday night encounters here with Washington State found several things he didn't like

I wasn't pleased with our over-all play I thought the team defense could have been much better ' Cipriano said

The result was that Pacific got a lot of easy shots and finished with a 39 per cent mark from the floor The major villain was Bob Krulish, who hit 11 of 16 from the floor and finished with 24 points

That was two points less than Baack produced Lantz chipped in with 20 and Nate Branch who seems to be shaking off something of an early season slump added 15 Nate also grabbed 13 rebounds, tops for the game

Nebraska which made only 11 errors to 23 for Pacific hit only 37 per cent but put up 19 more field goals and controlled the backboards

OSU Takes Seven Titles

By HAL BROWN

Oklahoma State's national collegiate champions carried most of the trophies away from Pershing Auditorium Saturday night at the conclusion of the Great Plains AAU Wrestling Tournament with the 145-pound Gene Davis owning the biggest collection

A year ago, Cowboy coach Myron Roderick brought only his freshman outfit to the Lincoln meet and they went home with four championships This time Roderick came with the varsity and the result was seven championships in the 11 events

One of the four titles that eluded the Cowboys grasp was won by Nebraska sophomore Gene Libal who captured the 191 pound crown

While Husker teammate Jerry Langdon was gaining most of the attention of NU backers in the early going Libal was quietly slipping through the field

But the former prep champion from Lexington came into the final match of the night needing a victory for the championship A tie would have given the title to State College of Iowa's Dan Masnick under the black mark scoring system that assessed a wrestler one mark for a decision win two for a draw three for a decision loss and four for a loss by fall

Libal captured the victory however, by blanking Jeff Arnold of Pueblo Colo., in the round-robin finals, 2-0.

Langdon the Huskers' main hope without a loss going into the round-robin competition of the 123-pound division lost two straight decisions in the finals Saturday night and finished third in his class

Libal and Langdon were the only Huskers finishing in the top four

Davis the reigning NCAA champion at 137 pounds, moved up to 145 for the Great Plains and was named the meet's outstanding wrestler as well as winning the trophy for the fastest fall, pinning Iowa's John Irvine in 15 seconds of their fourth-round match

Dan Groski of the Utah Cougar Club a group of Brigham Young wrestlers, won the trophy for most falls with four Curt Sexton of Illinois State who finished third in the 167 pound class, won the sportsmanship award

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher

Bill Taylor is used to touchy things, like the time when he was a Nebraska guard and lined up against Ohio State all-America Jim Parker

On the first play from scrimmage he fired out and dumped the noted Buckeye in embarrassing fashion.

"All-America, phooey," or words to that effect, Bill uttered.

It was a touchy situation. Bill, who had far more savvy, ability and determination than he did size, regretted his challenge later. He spent the rest of his day on the seat of his pants.

There was another touchy item, too. This one a little more serious and even touchier That was in Korea when as a young marine fresh out of North Platte high school, he stepped on a land mine

Survived So Far

And there was one more . . . when he injured his knee as a Husker freshman after he returned from service It cost him frosh competition and one year of varsity ball but he came back to start for NU.

Now, he is sitting atop another, as an assistant to Pete Elliott, the former Nebraska coach who is currently the head man at Illinois.

Taylor heads the speculation list to replace Elliott should Pete be booted up to athletic director at Illinois. And now Elliott's name is being tossed about as a candidate to become the AD at Northwestern.

And add another rumor that Alex Agase, the Northwestern coach, might get the Illinois coaching job

Add also that Buck McPhail, another Elliott aide, looks hard for head jobs and could ease in somewhere in the Illinois and/or Northwestern picture.

Confused?

If you think it's all confusing, you're right. Taylor probably is also

"If you're in coaching long enough, you learn to hear things and not be disappointed if they don't happen to turn out that way," Bill says. "It's particularly so when you work for a guy like Pete who motivates and keeps his assistants active."

It is, and Bill realizes this, a compliment just to be at a school in a major conference like Illinois.

Should he land the job, it would climax quite a climb for Bill, who is married to Joyce Finney, daughter of George Finney of Lincoln.

It is particularly so, when you consider he didn't plan on getting there in the first place. He became a coach almost by accident.

Joined Pete

After his final season at NU and a year as a graduate assistant he went into a business training program, plotting a career in that direction. It was short. Pete, who moved on to California from Nebraska, came up a coach short.

He called Bill and they have been together since at Cal and Illinois.

"Basically, this is what I've always hoped for," he says of the possibility of a head job.

Clouded now by the Northwestern rumor for Elliott, the odds may be long as they are for any assistant landing a head job.

But odds are not new for Bill When he had the knee injury as a freshman it was decided by many he wouldn't play again. It was not decided by Bill, however

Whips Westside

Casmer Scores 20 As Lincoln Wins

Omaha — Lincoln High jumped on top early, then held on most of the way in a see-saw contest to whip Omaha Westside, 56-53, and even its record at 1-1.

The Links had dropped their opener last week to Omaha Central.

Joe Casmer, who led all scorers with 20 points, all on field goals, pumped in half of his points in the third period after Westside had threatened by moving to within one point at the half at 28-27.

The Links who had one less field goal than Westside made good on 12 of 14 charity shots while Westside hit only 7 of 14

Alden Johnson's Links put up a stiff defense with Fred Dandridge showing the way It was Dandridge who made the Lincoln High fast break effective

Don Mohlman had a good night on boards and Chip Maly turned in a strong floor game as the Links showed signs of beginning to jell.

The Lincoln High reserves weren't as fortunate as the varsity as they dropped a narrow decision to Westside in the preliminary game

Yankees Send Ramos To Phillies

Philadelphia (AP) — Pedro Ramos, a veteran right-hand reliever, was acquired Saturday by the Philadelphia Phillies from the New York Yankees for rookie Joe Verbanic.

The 31-year-old Ramos, who posted a 3-9 record for the last-place Yankees in the American League last season, is expected to bolster the Phillies' weak bullpen He saved 12 games and posted a 3.60 earned run average.

The 23-year-old Verbanic, also a right-hander, was used as a reliever by the Phillies after reporting July 10 from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League. He appeared in 17 games, posting a 1-1 record and a 5.14 ERA. At San Diego, he was 8-1 in 22 games with a 2.67 ERA.

Sport Signals

By Hal Brown

Revealing sports notes while contemplating this poem from the pen of Colorado sports information director Fred Casotti, which he dedicated to the hectic winter days in a sports department:

Thumps & lumps & grunts & groans
Flips & flops & creaking bones
Sports departments' anguished moans
All part of winter's overtones.

Alabama coach Bear Bryant was in no hurry to begin thinking about his Sugar Bowl foe, Nebraska.

"I'm not interested in Nebraska at this time," the Bear said last Saturday night after whipping Auburn. "I got to enjoy the 10 straight for a while.

Wants More Players

Bryant also explained his first job after enjoying the 10 wins would be to corral a few players in an effort to ensure future 10-0 seasons at Alabama.

"I haven't seen any Nebraska movies and I won't for a week or 10 days," he pointed out. "The biggest problem I have now is recruiting more football players."

The Huskers would have been better off in last winter's Orange Bowl game had the Bear spent more time recruiting and less time studying NU movies where he detected a couple of major flaws in the Huskers that no one else had noticed during the year.

Midwest Going Other Way

Figures released of a study for the 1965-66 basketball season by the research committee of the National Association of Basketball Coaches reveals that while the rest of the country's cagers are scoring more, the Midwest is scoring less.

The Midwest was the only section of the country showing a decrease in scoring, going down last year to 159.4 points per game for both teams from a nation's leading figure of 161.1 the previous season.

The Rockies had the highest scoring games at 163.8, followed by Southwest 162.9, Midwest 159.4, South 155.4, East 152.0, Missouri Valley 148.7 and Far West 147.5.

Which Way Are You Going?

A week ago in the Miami-Denver game in the American Football League, the Dolphins covered 133 yards, 2½ feet in one series of downs, starting at the Denver four, but failed to score.

The wild series all started with a first and goal situation at the Denver four. The Dolphins lost seven on a blitz by the Broncos John Bramlett, putting the ball at the 11.

An incomplete pass was followed by a 15-yard penalty. Ball now at the 26. Another Bramlett blitz put it at the 43. When the Dolphins were assessed another 15-yard penalty, it was third and 58 on their own 42.

But this didn't deter the determined Dolphins, who then began a march back toward the Denver goal line. Rookie quarterback John Stofa started them back with a 23-yard pass to Bo Roberson and when a Denver player was caught grabbing a face mask, Miami was back at the Denver 20.

Stofa completed another pass for 13 yards and there they were—on the Broncos' seven-yard line. After an incomplete pass, they drove to the one where with third and goal, Billy Joe was stopped for no gain and Joe Auer was held at the six-inch line.

All this consumed nearly four minutes.

Northern Freezes Kearney

Aberdeen, S.D. (AP)—Kearney State was about as cold as this morning's 21 below zero weather as Northern State romped to a 91-75 basketball victory.

The Wolves jumped to a 10-2 lead in the first two minutes and were never threatened even though Kearney's defense plugged up some holes in the second half.

Guilford's Free Throws Give Knights 50-48 Win

Fremont — Senior forward Bill Guilford sank two free throws with four seconds left in the game to break a 48-48 deadlock and give Lincoln Southeast a 50-48 basketball victory here Saturday night.

Ironically, Guilford's winning tosses were his only points from the free throw line as he had missed on his only other charity shot earlier in the game.

The contest was close all the way, the score being knotted 12 times during the evening.

Southeast took a 13-9 lead after the first quarter of play, but Fremont held the Knights to eight points in the second period as it drew even at 21-21 at the half.

The host Tigers moved to a 34-33 advantage entering the nip-and-tuck final quarter of play.

Leading scorer in the contest was Southeast's Ron Nelson with 17 points. Guilford tallied 12 and Scott Dworak hit 11 for the Knights.

Leading the way for the Tigers was Richard Bean with 13 points. Ted Schafersman was close behind with 12.

KU, K-State Grab SunflowerTourney

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Unbeaten Kansas pulled away late with the clutch shooting of sophomore Phil Harmon and Howard Arndt for a 68-56 victory over Baylor after Kansas State overpowered Florida State 81-58 Saturday night.

Kansas led by 12 points, 33-21, when Baylor switched to a 1-3-1 zone defense and twice pulled within three points. Kansas went scoreless three minutes while the Bears pulled up 55-49 with 6:27 left.

Ron Franz fouled out for Kansas at this point, but Arndt, a 6-7 rookie, came in to get five points. Harmon hit four straight foul shots in the clutch as Vernon Vanoy and Jo Jo White fouled out.

Baylor's 6-7 standout, Darrell Hardy, was held to two goals and 14 points by Vanoy and Franz. Rodger Bohnenstiehl led Kansas with 16 points and 12 rebounds. Steve Bartels led the Bears with 15.

Patriots Hope to Take Big Step Toward Title

Face Oilers Today

By Associated Press

The Boston Patriots sporting the league's top rusher and a brutal defensive squad take their hopes for an American Football League division crown into Houston's Astrodome Sunday

They can't clinch it But a victory over the struggling Oilers would be another major step on the long road to the Super Bowl

Here's the way it works

Boston has a 7 3-2 record with two games to play including Sunday's match with Houston Buffalo is in second place in the Eastern Division with an 8-4-1 mark The Bills are idle this weekend

The Patriots can clinch it with a win and a tie or with two ties A Buffalo loss in its last game against Denver next week would let the Patriots take it on a loss and a tie

Babe Parilli
Patriot Passer

But Boston Coach Mike Holovak doesn't even want to consider that situation

"I'm not looking past Houston" Holovak said as he took his team to Texas for the most important game on the AFL weekly schedule

The rest of them, all Sunday, have New York at San Diego, Denver at Oakland and Kansas City, with the Western Division title in the bag visiting Miami

The Patriots' offensive machine—centered around fullback Jim Nance, quarterback Babe Parilli and flanker Gino Cappalletti — has gained most of the notice in recent weeks, but Holovak gives full credit to his defensive platoon, which owns the league's best mark against the rush, a miserly 69.1 yards a game.

"They've shown excellent execution," Holovak said after last week's key 14-3 victory over Buffalo. "They've all been great."

"There isn't a line in the league as quick as we are" said end Bob Dee, one of the original Patriots "Some may be stronger, but none are quicker"

The Patriot offense has been a perfect complement, spearheaded by the running of sophomore Nance. He's already chalked up a league record of 1,234 yards on the ground under the direction of the veteran Parilli at quarterback

And Cappelletti leads the league in scoring with 103 points. He's gunning for his fifth league scoring title and fourth in a row

In the NFL the Dallas Cowboys, seeking their first National Football League title, face the third big game in three weeks Sunday when they take on the bouncy Washington Redskins in the Cotton Bowl

And if fellow schoolmen were to ask their delegates to the Nebraska School Activities Association representative assembly to report on their doings Thursday night, they'd get about the same kind of a response

This year's annual meeting was one of the most interesting this observer has attended, but produced fewer changes in the state high school athletic program than many previous meetings.

It wasn't that there weren't any hot issues considered, but just that nothing came of such far ranging items as re-unifying the state basketball tourney, changing the classification plan for basketball and adding another week to pre season football drills

Small Schools Not Neglected

A curious body at best the representative assembly is a 48 member group which has the authority to make regulations regarding all NSAA activities

Word of the Supreme Court's 'one man, one vote' edict hasn't caused much consternation in the six-district body which includes two delegates from Bartley outvoted only by Omaha (5) Lincoln (3) and Norfolk (3) in any discussion The only other schools with two delegates are Wayne Hastings Sidney and Alliance

Safety Everyone's Business

Newton's Program Helps

Operation Outdoors

By Riley Hall

Youngsters want to shoot guns. That's common knowledge and most people agree that it is alright for them to have guns and hunt but they need to learn the correct way to use their weapons and that's the job of a qualified instructor such as Clarence Newton of the Nebraska Game Commission.

Newton, whose job is to promote hunting as a recreational activity in the state of Nebraska, also has the double duty of teaching safety to our hunters and to the younger generation of hunters who will soon be ready to take their place in the fields as bona fide sportsmen.

"Gun safety is one of our main concerns and I guess you would have to say it is the most important," Newton explained. "With gun safety comes a realization of the other important points in hunting—obeying game laws and being considerate of others."

Newton has spoken before many groups in the state, 4-H, scouts, schools and even women's organizations. "Women are quite interested in gun safety," Newton said. "They want to know the correct way to handle a gun so that they may watch over their youngsters.

"Nebraskans think that the high powered rifles are the most dangerous so they brush off the shotguns and small caliber rifles," Newton explained. "This is just reversed. A high powered rifle fires a bullet with high velocity and will shatter when it hits any object, whereas a 22 bullet will hit objects, ricochet off and then travel even farther.

"Shotguns are the most dangerous. Hunters will crowd into cars after a hard day in the field and leave their guns loaded and then when they arrive home, they don't take the necessary precautions to make sure the gun is stored properly. He not only endangers himself by doing this but his family and neighbors as well."

In 1964-65, Nebraska had 14 fatal gun accidents and 50 non-fatal. The most important aspect of these grim statistics is the fact that 50 per cent of these accidents involved youngsters under the age of 16. And even more alarming, 50 per cent of the accidents were in the home.

"We try to make our safety program deal with safety in the home as well as the field," Newton continued."

Newton's safety program sites three main points, that if followed, would certainly help eliminate fatal gun accidents.

1. Treat every gun as if it were loaded.
2. Point muzzle in safe direction.
3. Be sure of your target.

"Our program, which we call the 3x3 Program for Gun Safety, is for girls as well as boys," Newton explained. "The girls can watch dad and brothers to see that they follow the correct rules of gun safety."

Newton, who held a meeting at Lincoln High School this past Tuesday finds that the junior high and early high school age is the right time to start the students on their safety instruction.

"At this level, the youngsters are ready for their first gun and they are eager to learn," Newton said. "We feel that they can be taught more readily and will learn more."

Many states require youngsters to have safety training before they go into the field to hunt and al- Nebraska isn't ready to make this a regulation at this time, it will probably come in the near future, Newton pointed out.

Volunteers are welcome to help with a safety program in their area and all available instruction material may be obtained from the Nebraska Game Commission.

Clarence Newton of the Game Commission talks over his safety program with Lincoln High students Lori Bartzatt and Bob Semrad.

Centennial Calendars

Everyone may not be able to read the copy, but Lebanese and other foreigners receiving the 1967 NEBRASKAland Calendar of Color will get the message. The attractive, full-color photos of Nebraska at its scenic best speak for themselves.

The Centennial edition of the calendar is already on its way, not only to Lebanon, but to 14 other countries and all 50 states as well. Destinations outside the United States include Japan, Brazil, the West Indies, Philippine Islands, Wales, Australia, Canada, Denmark, New Zealand, Peru, Switzerland, Germany, and England.

HUNTING CLOCK

Shooting hours for deer and turkey are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Hours for Wilson's snipe, rails, and gallinules are sunrise to sunset. All other game may be taken from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The following applies to shooting at any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of each city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute. Valentine and Scottsbluff schedules are Mountain Time. All others are Central Time. Hunters should set their watches according to the time zone in which they are hunting.

The schedule of solunar periods for the following week as printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your day so that you will be fishing good territory, hunting good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each has to offer. The tables are not a guarantee you will catch fish or see game during the period, however.

The major periods begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter, and are in black face type. The minor periods are somewhat shorter in duration.

Miss. State Fires AD, Grid Coach

Starkville, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State University fired athletic director Wade Walker and head football coach Paul Davis Saturday.

Dr. W. L. Giles, MSU president who made the announcement, said school officials had come to the conclusion that neither Walker nor Davis could succeed in their duties.

The MSU Bulldogs had a dismal 2-8 record during the past season.

Giles said Davis' contract, which expires Dec. 31, 1967, would be honored for pay purposes.

Walker, a former All-American tackle at Oklahoma, came to Mississippi State as an assistant coach in 1954. He became head coach in February, 1956, succeeding Darrell Royal. During Walker's six years as head coach, the Bulldogs had a record of 22-32-2.

NU Administrators, Faculty Oppose Tuition Hike

Gov.-elect Norbert Tiemann said he may recommend tuition increases, however, to the 1967 Legislature.

NU students now pay 43.3% of their educational costs through tuition. Most public institutions, NU officials said, have students pay 25 to 30% of the costs through tuition.

NU officials also supported state aid to junior colleges and improvement of "quality" higher educational opportunities for undergraduate students at the hearings.

NU Freshman Is 'Miss Centennial'

Nancy

Seventy-one girls from as many counties were entered in the first such program in state history.

As winner, Nancy will collect an estimated $10,000 in prizes, including a new car.

Six Surrender Off-sale Licenses

Six applicants given conditional city approval for liquor-by-the-drink licenses have agreed to surrender their off-sale privileges.

Under state law, a Class C liquor-by-the-drink license authorizes the sale of on-sale beer and liquor as well as off-sale beer and liquor.

Pittsburgh Bats Again Pace NL

Cincinnati (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates continued to lead National League batters in 1966 only this time Matty Alou took the hitting crown instead of Roberto Clemente

Matty Alou hit 342 well ahead of his brother Felipe's second place 327 at Atlanta Clemente, who won the batting crown in 1964 and 1965 batted 317 for a fourth place tie with Richie Allen of Philadelphia Rico Carty of Atlanta was third at 316

The Pirates, who have won the batting crown 19 times since 1900, also turned in the highest club batting average of 279

The pennant-winning Los Angeles Dodgers didn't even have a player among the top 15 batters

Meanwhile Hank Aaron of Atlanta continued to hit the home runs and drive the runners across He hit 44 homers to boost his total to 432 third among active National League players - and drove in 127 runs to take the league lead for the fourth time

While Felipe Alou missed out on the batting crown, he did score more runs than anybody else, 128, and also garnered the most hits 218

Tim McCarver of St. Louis made history by becoming the first catcher to lead the league in triples. He hit 13 of them

Johnny Callison of Philadelphia slammed 40 doubles for first place honors, and Sonny Jackson of Houston led the league with 160 singles and 27 sacrifice bunts Orlando Cepeda's nine sacrifice flies for St Louis were tops for the circuit

After six years of leading the league in base stealing, Maury Wills lost that honor to Lou Brock of St Louis. Brock stole 74 bases while the injury-plagued Wills got away with it only 38 times and was caught on 24 occasions — more than anybody else in the league

There were three iron men who did not miss a game — Leo Cardenas of Cincinnati, Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh and Billy Williams of Chicago

Texas Aggies' Off Probation

Dallas (AP) — Texas A&M's probation was lifted Saturday, clearing the books of all rules violations in the Southwest Conference

The Aggies were taken off an indefinite probation given them for football practice out of season and taking up athletic scholarships

Sanctions also were voted when the probation was invoked a year ago prohibiting Texas A&M from playing in bowl games These sanctions were removed effective Jan 16 1967

New Orleans Beckons to Husker Fans

By RON GIBSON

New Orleans didn't impress Father Charlevoix

The French priest wrote of New Orleans that it consisted of a hundred barracks, a large wooden storehouse, a few tents and two or three houses which would be no ornament to a village of France

But that was in 1722 when the tiny colony founded by Jean Baptiste la Moyne, Sieur de Bienville, was only four years old

Since than a lot of water has flowed round the bend And a lot of pirates and voodoo queens and Creole cookin' and Kentucky rifle shootin' and Spanish architecture and American industrial development and jazz music have come too Today there is hardly a barracks around in New Orleans

New Orleans-bound Nebraska football followers will find a world of entertainment, eating and education waiting for them in New Orleans — so much that they will have to be selective and choose from an overwhelming assortment of attractions in a brief stay

More to Come

Articles in subsequent issues of The Sunday Journal and Star will deal with two of New Orleans' most famous products, jazz and Creole cooking But this has to do with rubber necking

For the historically-minded visitor, New Orleans is itself a museum albeit a lively, various and rollicking one.

In and near New Orleans you can visit one of the nation's historic battlefields or order a Royal Street Jubilee visit a wax museum and a jazz museum, see a voodoo queen's grave and a pirate hangout, go to the opera or have your portrait painted

Ze Best

Best of all you can go to the French Quarter

In New Orleans, they are likely to call the French Quarter the vieux carre, which means literally "old square"

The old square is no place for old squares It teems with cultural history as well as all-hours excitement

The French Quarter is an area roughly six blocks by 12 blocks, bounded by Canal Street Rampart Street, Esplanade Ave. and the serpentine Missouri River

The French Quarter was once New Orleans when that city was under French and later Spanish rule

After the Louisiana Purchase of 1803 put New Orleans under the American flag, the French Quarter gained exclusivity—mostly because the American newcomers and the Creole residents didn't see eye to eye on many matters, and the newcomers chose to build outside the wall and moat of the old quarter The Creoles stayed put and lived it up

French Quarter

Travel experts say that one of the best things to do in New Orleans is simply to tour the French Quarter — on foot If your ankles hold out these are some of the sights you may see there

Jackson Square — Close to the riverfront and surrounded by Decatur St Chartres St St Ann St and St Peter St This is the old city square, bordered by,

Basilica of St Louis King of France, formerly the St. Louis Cathedral, an 18th Century church

The Cabildo, the Spanish-built government house dating to 1795 and now part of the Louisiana State Museum on one side of the Basilica

The Pontalba Apartments, gracious and ornately-decorated structures flanking the square Built in 1849, they are America's first apartments Thackeray and Jenny Lind once lived in them,

St. Anthony's Garden, behind the Basilica, once a dueling ground

Elsewhere in the French Quarter you'll find

Art Galleries—Two dozen or so, many of them in Pirate's Alley near the Square

Musee Conti, 917 Conti St a wax museum depicting Louisiana History

Jazz Museum, 1017 Dumaine, a little cottage with the world's biggest collection of jazz relics, also live jazz

Preservation Hall, 726 St Peter St another jazz museum

Pharmaceutical Museum 514 Chartres which contains in its voodoo section samples of magical powders including "come-to-me powder" and "get away powder

Pere Antoine, 727 Royal an old fashioned ice-cream parlor where you may dig into a Royal Street Cherry Jubilee or a Vieux Carre Peach Melba

Casa Hove, 723 Toulouse a Spanish home built in the 1720s, one of many old and famous houses in the French Quarter

Madame John's Legacy, 632 Dumaine the oldest building in the Mississippi Valley

Many other old restaurants lounges and taverns including Old Absinthe House at Bourbon and Bienville Streets where Andrew Jackson and pirate Jean Lafitte are supposed to have met to plan the defense of New Orleans

Babe Ruth Shutouts

The American League record of nine shutouts by a left-handed pitcher in one season is held by Babe Ruth

Skaters Beware

Ice Cover Can Be Attractive But Deadly

You may be ready for ice skating but skating ice is not ready for you

The American Red Cross has warned against too early and hazardous use of ice-covered ponds, lakes and rivers

"The key to skating safety is to know when and where to skate safely," declared A. B. Murphy, national director of Red Cross Safety Services.

The first ice of the season can be attractive but deadly to skaters. It is deceptively thin and not uniform in thickness The center area is weak due to the swift current in many rivers

New ice, Murphy explained, is not really safe until it has frozen at least two or three inches Even then, skaters should venture cautiously, staying reasonably close to shore When new ice reaches a depth of four inches, it will support a larger number of skaters

Ice safety mtasures are of particular importance to residents of the Salt Valley Watershed areas because of the abundance of smaller ponds and lakes.

—Skate in supervised areas.

—Build fires on banks, not ice.

—Remember ice is dangerous during thawing spells and as winter nears the end.

—Keep rescue equipment on hand, such as a long pole, ladder, rope or plank

—Lie flat on the ice, edge forward and reach rescue equipment to victim Do not stand on ice.

—If no rescue equipment is there, several persons can form a human chain by lying flat on the ice and reaching the victim

—If you are alone and fall through the ice, don't try to climb out Extend both arms along the surface of the ice and kick vigorously This will help lift your body onto solid ice. Then roll to safety.

Lincoln Credit Bureau

Counseling Services Available for Families

This is the program known as family credit counseling," aimed to help families get back on their feet financially in their community

If a family's situation is so dismal that they can't even pay the nominal counseling fee it comes free

The family's main contribution is a willingness to sit down as husband and wife with the counselor and bare their financial woes

It only takes a call to the Bureau to set up an appointment

'One visit could take care of a family's problem or it might take several" Opp said

An important segment of the financial freedom ahead is a family budget plan on paper, not by envelopes, which Opp and the concerned couple would work out during these sessions.

Some, he said, might feel it better for the service to negotiate for satisfactory payment schedules to creditors

Opp said there is no set solution but each family's problem will be tailored to the circumstances

This is a new service here but not in 49 other U S cities where members of the Associated Credit Bureaus of America have set up this counseling

It is something needed for some years but especially in the past decade, according to Max Meyer, Lincoln Credit Bureau manager. Now 85, Meyer is the senior bureau member in the U.S. today after 62 years on the job.

Lincoln s counseling is sponsored by the Lincoln Consumer Credit Assn and will be financially supported by the Credit Bureau's subscribing members

If Lincoln s counseling runs true to form it will

To Grandfather's House We'll Go . . . . . Through the Tube and Under the Bay

. . . From San Francisco To Oakland

San Francisco (UPI) — The world's first fully automated rapid transit system is scheduled to go into operation in the San Francisco Bay area in 1971

One of the world's greatest engineering projects the Bay Area Transit (BART) System is now about one-half under construction.

To ride the system, a passenger will drop a coin in a slot and a ticket will pop out From the platform he will step into a car, or train, in which the engineer" does nothing but push buttons to run it.

Depending upon destinations in Alameda. Contra Costa or San Francisco Counties — all bordering the bay — the cars may travel underground, by aerial tracks, on grade level or through a tube under the sea between San Francisco and Oakland. The sub-sea trip will be through the longest underwater structure of its kind in the world, 3.6 miles of tube but 6 miles overall, including approaches on both sides of the bay.

The trans-bay tube, the key to the system, will follow, almost to the foot, the seaway that ferry boats paddle-- wheeled between San Francisco and Oakland only a few years ago.

Auto, Appliance Makers Cut Production and Lay Off Workers

General Motors Corp put into effect the first step of its two-stage production cut totaling 8 3% The No 1 automaker laid off 4 000 men at assembly plants in Atlanta, St Louis Arlington, Tex , and Willow Run Mich

It said more layoffs were planned by Jan 9 at seven other plants GM has 23 assembly plants in the United States

Chrysler Corp. said it would lay off 680 workers Jan. 3, including 450 in Detroit and 230 in Los Angeles.

A Ford Motor Co. spokesman said he saw nothing to indicate that there will be layoffs. He added there had been some substantial cuts in overtime at some plants but that others still were operating on six-day weeks

American Motors Corp. said it had no immediate plans for layoffs but that it was considering ways of cutting costs

General Electric Co indicated it would halt production in its household refrigerator department and dishwasher and disposal department for five days, beginning Dec. 15, at its appliance park facility in Louisville Ky

The closedown will affect about 4 600 workers in the refrigerator department and more han 1 000 in the dishwasher and disposal department

A GE spokesman said the production cutbacks were necessary to "bring about a balance between our factory inventories and factory sales.

Whirlpool Corp , another major apphance producer, will close its St Joseph, Mich , home laundry equipment plant on Dec 19, five days earlier than originally planned The plant was scheduled to close for about a week after Dec 23 to allow for a normal inventory check, a company spokesman said The extra five-day closedown at the plant, which employs about 1 300, is being scheduled because "we have a little more inventory than we should have," the spokesman said

Although layoffs were spreading, they hardly made a dent in the almost full employment picture which has seen the unemployment rate fall to the lowest level in years

Two of the Big Three automakers announced production cuts that would put the December industrywide production figure at least 70,000 vehicles below that of December 1965.

General Motors said its decline would be about 14%, or 63,000 vehicles below a year ago. Chrysler announced it planned to produce 140,000 cars this month, compared with 146,000 in December of last year.

Stocks Post an Advance

No Increase In Tax Seen

New York (UPI) — The stock market last week welcomed some good economic news ignored the bad news and posted its best advance in two months

Wall Street analysts said a prime factor in the upswing was the growing feeling among investors that President Johnson would not call for an anti-inflationary tax increase at the present time.

Announcement that the President would ask for $9 or $10 billion to supplement the Vietnam war effort strengthened this theory in the minds of many traders, who had anticipated a larger amount.

Market observers also said tax loss selling had abated to a large extent and institutional buying began to push the market higher, giving the blue chips a firmer tone

Also on the "plus" side, as far as the market is concerned, was a decline in net borrowed or "minus" reserves of member banks, and indication the Federal Reserve System is easing restraints on credit

The picture was not all "rosy" The bulk of discouraging news surrounding the market was far from dispersed but brokers believe much of it has been discounted in recent declines.

Fed Steer Prices Off

Omaha (UPI) — The Livestock Foundation of Omaha said fat cattle receipts last week on the Omaha livestock market ran well ahead of the previous week

The foundation, in its weekly report said fat cattle receipts were almost on a par with the same period a year ago

After a slow start the market rallied a little at midweek and, sparked by some recovery in the dressed trade, held on to overcome most of the early loss.

With price pressure continuing to bear heaviest on heavier cattle, fed steers under 1,150 pounds sold steady to 25 lower with weights above that mark fully 25 off Fat heifers were mostly steady. Steer top for the week was 24 85, week's heifer top 24 00 with this ticket paid on at least six loads

The butcher market was a jitterbug affair with unevenness the dominant factor throughout the week. Prices were steady to mostly 25-50 higher with some rather wide fluctuations from day to day on the heavier hogs.

Sows were steady to mostly 75 lower instances 1 00 off, the decline on the heavies Week's butcher top 21 50, sow top 16 50

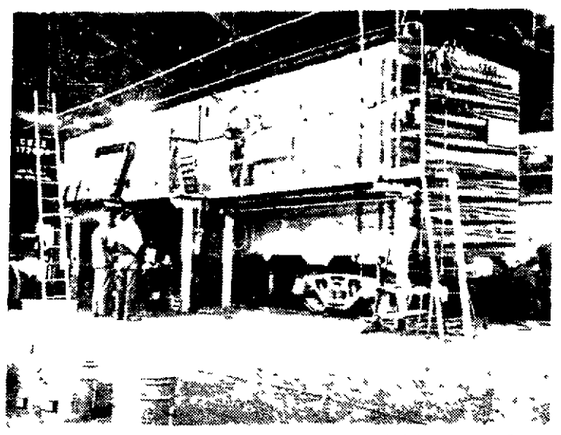
A 'Golden Girl'



Havelock Shop employes put finishing touches on one of eight Burlington freight cars designated for the gold spray transformation after Burlington won the Railway Progress Institute's 1966 Golden Freight Car Award. Burlington, winning this "Oscar of the Railroads" from 12 other competing lines, will use these shining cars throughout the system shortly.

Is There Enough Water for Mirage Flats? Other Irrigation Supplies Good

Mirage Flats irrigation project in northwest Nebraska has a colorful name, a colorful history — and somewhat dim prospects for the 1967 irrigation season.

Behind the Flats' shortage of water — which seems chronic — may lie a costly miscalculation made early in its history, a state water official said.

Barring a miracle — natural or congressional—there will be too little water to meet 100% of the demands of farmers when the five-month irrigation season opens about May 1.

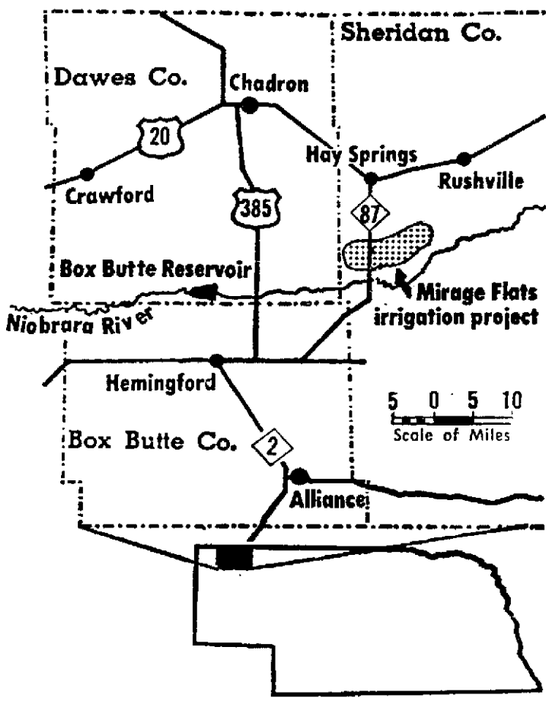
The natural miracle would come with unexpectedly heavy rains and snows. "Prospects don't look too good unless they get a lot of moisture," Jones said.

The congressional miracle would mean approval of plans to develop pump irrigation in the Flats. But a dispute between farmers and the government over who should finance the wells may block this.

Disputes are nothing new for Mirage Flats.

About 10 miles long and three miles wide, the 11,657-acre project was once the scene of the bloody Niobrara Feud, a war between cattlemen and farmers.



In the late 1940's, Box Butte Dam, an earth and gravel embankment in Box Butte County about 10 miles north of Hemingford, was constructed on the Niobrara River to irrigate the Flats, a table land about 20 miles down river in Sheridan County.

The water, delivered by canal and ditch, caused the land to blossom with sugar beets, beans, potatoes, corn and alfalfa.

It was during this early period that the miscalculation may have been made, Jones said.

"The water supply never has been up to what we estimated it would ahve been, based on the rather meager records we had for planning.

"We haven't decided yet whether our estimates based on the records we had were really bad, or whether we're going through an extensive drouth period up there.

"Precipitation during the last 10 to 15 years in that area has been generally below normal.

"Chances are a little bit of the two things are mixed in there—a lack of precipitation and an overestimate of the probable supply."

In planning irrigation projects, "We don't plan one that will have 100% supply of water in the worst year. If we did, we would have to cut the acreage down, and waste a lot of water in good years," Jones said.

"We usually figure that if you have a full supply eight years out of 10, you can stand at least minor shortages during the other two years."

At Mirage Flats, the lean years may be more than two of ten.

"The farmers could use some more if the water were there," a Bureau of Reclamation spokesman said, "but it's just not in the river."

Each year Mirage Flats farmers use nearly all of the Box Butte water for irrigation, "and there's not too much capacity to begin with," he said.

The Bureau reservoir can hold enough water to cover 30,420 acres with water one foot deep. Its peak last season was reached May 20 when it held 24,444 acre-feet.

The Bureau has offered a plan to provide the needed extra water by drilling wells upstream on the Niobrara.

"There are pretty good groundwater supplies along the canal," Jones said. "By controlling the number of pumps, you greatly increase the supply of water."

A feasibility study on the proposal went to the Bureau of Reclamation about two years ago, Jones said, but no action has been taken.

Jones cited "one thing which may have affected the progress of this proposal as far as Congress is concerned.

"The water users' irrigation district took the position that this additional supply from wells should be financed as part of the original project, that they should not have to repay the cost of this additional water.

"They reasoned that they got the land thinking that it had a full water supply; now they find they need more, they don't think they should have to put that on top of the other costs.

"This is not in line with the usual Reclamation projects. It would take special legislation to accomplish that."

Landowners in an irrigation district must repay certain costs of the project, usually costs of the distribution system, Jones said.

These costs are assessed—after the first decade of development—on the basis of irrigable land they have in the district, not on the basis of how much water they use.

In Nebraska there are 3.2 million acres being irrigated, Jones said, one million from reservoirs and the rest from groundwater.

The 1967 water supply for all of these acres of farmland is "in good shape," Jones said, except for the few thousand acres supplied from Box Butte Reservoir.

Christmas Games for Kids Are Fun for Mom and Dad

SUNDAY JOURNAL AND STAR STAFF COLORPHOTO BY BOB GORHAM

Christmas is . . . a big, red fire engine. Anne Wright, 3, and the "fire station dog" ride on the back, while Christopher Healey, 2½, drives the engine. The children's parents are Messrs. and Mmes. Charles Wright and Patrick W. Healey.

By JAN BURNS

What the kids find under the Christmas tree this year may be jolly old Mom and Dad, having a go at the Christmas toys and ho-ho-ho'ing at every turn.

Leading the game list—and well up in Lincoln toy departments' total popularity polls — are those which present as merry a challenge to adults as to children.

Tests Agility

One, with a sheet-sized "playing field," tests the players' agility by giving commands at the spin of a dial: left hand here, right hand there, right foot way over yonder . . . and whoever keeps his balance longest wins the match.

In another popular game, players count the times they can blow up a balloon before it does what all balloons do when they're blown up one time too many. A container of compressed air for the blowing saves lungs and faces.

Quiet games have lost ground this Christmas season, as have quiet items elsewhere in the toy departments, Lincoln buyers indicated. It's a year for sound and action.

Housekeeping Toys

Also showing up frequently on girls' Christmas lists are housekeeping toys. These, too, are action models: ovens that bake, washers that wash, vacuums that clean.

Trains and road races continue to intrigue boys but the top toy this year may be a battery-operated big car. Its appeal is that the boys manipulate it themselves, directing its course by remote control.

Last year's miniature military tactician remains popular, helped along by a new space capsule. (There's more interest in space, less in spies, military toys and guns this year, toy buyers said.) Another non-doll, new this year, changes into almost anybody's hero at the switch of a costume.

Things Children Like

Among the things children like best, buyers also rated juvenile furniture, little bitty dolls, a tiny battery-run jeep, a "doll" house for a family of mice and kits to

Just Like Cinderella, This Grandmother Is Going to the Ball

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Imperial — It's her very first formal and of course she'll wear it to the inaugural ball, this Cinderella who has a son named Norbert.

Mrs. Alvina Tiemann is also the good fairy who runs errands for friends, the small-town widow who is magically becoming Nebraska's queen mother. She's the country preacher's wife who patched two sons' overalls — and she's the gal Nobby consulted before he ever announced for governor.

"I'll always remember that Norbert said he had asked for divine guidance," reflected the deeply religious woman, 73. "I told him that even though the responsibility would be great, we do need men in public office who will set forth Christian principles."

But back to that formal, which has Mrs. Tiemann as excited as a high schooler planning her first prom — or ride in a fairy-tale coach. Neighbors are advising, a seamstress is measuring, she is fretting.

So far her preference of satin with a lace overlay has produced no such material. Longtime friend and "best dressmaker around" Mrs. C. J. Hegenberger is fearful they will have to settle for brocade.

"It will have to be orchid because that color goes with gray hair, and it will have to be made," said Mrs. Tiemann with a youthful half-wink. "The stores have nothing which is suitable for an elderly minister's wife and grandmother of eight."

'It's My Castle'

Coming to Imperial and its Zion Lutheran Church in 1948, Mrs. Tiemann lost her husband a year later — the same month Norbert, now 42, was graduated from the University of Nebraska. She moved briefly to Lexington, then returned to her friends and a white-fenced cottage ("no palace, but it is my castle.")

The Rev. M. W. Tiemann had ended his 35-year ministry with a building program reflecting the same leadership apparent in his governor-elect son. Even in his 4-H work, young Nobby had demonstrated the "careful deliberation" that had characterized his father.

"My husband was outspoken but used good judgment, and Norbert resembles him in that and most everything else," said the proud but modest mother. "He even gestures like his father. When he points a finger, you feel it's pointed right at you."

There was little hint of a political career when he and older brother Tony attended high school at Campbell, both with an eye to teaching. Tony did teach some at Fremont before becoming manager of a lumber yard at Greeley, Colo.

Norbert had exercised that "careful deliberation" in 1954 before giving up a Chicago public relations spot with the National Livestock and Meat Board. The death of his father-in-law, H. J. Bornholdt of Wausa, had left an opening with the Commercial State Bank.

Three-Term Mayor

Within three years Tiemann had been promoted from cashier to president, and soon started three terms as mayor. His presidency of the State Bankers Assn. helped nudge him into the state spotlight.

A combat veteran of the Leyte invasion and Okinawa campaign, he had barely ended a 1950 honeymoon when called back by the Army. Much of the next two years were spent in Germany.

"Both my sons married a Lorna, so to me Norbert's wife is Lorna Lou," noted the elder Mrs. Tiemann. "I guess it's just coincidence, but that was also the name of the little girl my husband and I lost."

One of Imperial's busiest baby-sitters upon her return to town, she has practically given this up to serve as receptionist at a local mortuary. Like the light household tasks she performs for two families, the work is part-time.

Chatting with friends on her frequent five-block walks downtown, the unassuming mother would rather talk about Norbert's birth at Minden than his coming inauguration. He had been baptized in her husband's little St. Paul's Church, now seen by

Woman's Changing Roles Leave Her in Confused State

By BETSY BLISS
Chicago Daily News Special

Face it, girls, you just can't win. No matter what you do, someone will criticize you.

If you try to be a conscientious mother, someone will call you "overly protective." If you take on outside interests, you're a "gad-about." A working mother is "neglecting her primary role" and "taking over too many men's jobs."

But if she stays home and spends her spouse's money she's "driving her husband to an early grave."

What is the role of a modern American housewife? Interpretations are so divergent that, according to sociologist Helena Lopata, "it is impossible for women today to consider themselves adequate human beings."

Part of the confusion comes from the varied, changing roles a woman is expected to play during her lifetime.

Mrs. Lopata, an assistant professor at Roosevelt University, pinpoints these changes—and accompanying frustrations—in her study, "The Life Cycle of the Social Role of a Housewife." Mrs. Lopata is a housewife and the mother of a son, 11, and a daughter, 15.

She bases her finds on interviews with 1,000 Chicago-area housewives.

Just becoming a housewife is a traumatic experience, according to the local urban and suburban interviewees. Brides, they said, are not "adequately" trained.

The average girl marries at age 20. Although she has lived in a home, Mrs. Lopata said in an interview, "The American system of education and occupation removes her from its walls for most of her conscious hours starting at age 5." During her teen years her attention is on "school-work-boys-leisure." Homemaking is the farthest thing from her mind—and "home economics" courses in school are not highly regarded.

If she postpones marriage until her mid or late 20s she still

Saturday Night in Lincoln

Holiday Parties Made for a Festive Evening

Mrs. Maurine Gibbs receives the charter for the Lincoln chapter of Parents Without Partners at a dinner in the Capital Hotel from Col. Karl Schmidt of Omaha. Among those enjoying the NWU Panhellanic Ball (right) last evening were the four sororities presidents who are the Misses Sheri Anderson, Lois Dappen, Carol Smith, and Susan Christensen.

'Boughs of holly" and other Christmas trimmings decked the halls for the many parties Saturday evening

At the Cornhusker Hotel, Cosmopolitan Club had a dinner-dance in the Georgian Room. In the ballroom, members of Merrimyx attended the club's annual Christmas dance.

Reserve Officers Assn. members and their ladies gathered for a holiday dinner-dance at East Hills Supper Club. Also at the club were several private gatherings to mark the Christmas season

The Panhellenic Ball sponsored by the four Nebraska Wesleyan University sororities climaxed the Christmas social season for those groups. The formal dance was in the NWU Campus Center. An octet comprised of two members from each sorority presented an interlude of music.

At the Black Coach Supper Club, the Sunrise Optimists held a dinner-dance.

The Lincoln chapter of Parents Without Partners received its charter at a dinner at the Capital Hotel. Guests came from Omaha, Grand Island and Kansas City for the event. Col. Karl Schmidt of Omaha presented the charter and Dr. Russell Gorthey was the speaker.

Groups from several University of Nebraska living units gathered on and off campus for their Christmas parties, while other students attended the NU-Pacific University basketball game or the University theater production "As You Like It."

Lincoln Women's Club Aids Students

Two years ago life members of the Lincoln Woman's Club decided to sponsor a fund for offering financial aid to young men and women enabling them to continue their edcuation.

The young people could be students at any university, college, nurses school or secretarial school in the city.

Through projects and gifts the fund has reached an amount where several students may be helped. The fund is revolving and loans are returned when the students graduate at no interest, according to Mrs. Ray Johnson.

Lincoln area students wishing more information should write to the Chairman of the Student Loan Committee, Lincoln Woman's Club, 407 So. 14th, Lincoln.

A luncheon to raise funds is planned for noon on Dec. 19. Open to the public, the luncheon will be followed by a program and bridge. Reservations may be made with Miss Allegra Wilkens.

"We always lived frugally, but I believe we were as happy when my husband started with $500 a year as when we moved to Imperial for $1,200," reminisced the St. Louis native. She had met "M.W." when he was a student in that city's Concordia Seminary.

Carefully stored in her bedroom is an oversize portrait of her son, salvaged from the recent campaign by local druggist Rodney Einsphar. Much too large for her tiny but neat living room, it would never squeeze between the several religious plaques.

"I didn't make any campaign speeches, but I sure had my purse loaded with buttons and literature," she quipped, a slight accent reminding of her German-born parents.

Will the new governor's occupancy of the Lincoln mansion mean any change in his mother's residency?

"Lorna Lou will need me at Wausa to help pack, but after that I want to come back here to my wonderful friends," she commented. "My prayers will still be in Norbert's behalf."

For another television favorite, it's shaping up as a bleak season. Batman, on his first Christmas (that's right, the series didn't start till 1966), is "about dead," pronounced the buyers.

But one Batman item may yet beat the Bonanza wagon in the Christmas popularity race It's a five-inch action model of — you guessed it — the Batmobile

Stop Wrinkles

Colder months can give your skin a lovely bloom, but also wrinkles. Dry, crisp air causes the skin to contract, preventing protective oils from reaching the surface Ask your druggist for moist Olay oil and stroke it onto your face, neck and hands before you go outdoors. Patting in round the eyes before you apply make-up, gives the skin a healthy radiance.

MALE MODES

Presidential Prospects . . . All Good Dressers

After the recent elections, a handful of new prospects for the presidency—in addition to the current occupant of the White House, and other traditional campaigners like Richard Nixon—offer us one thing in common, regardless of party.

It's the fact that each and every man now being mentioned as a prospect for 1968 is an outstanding good dresser.

From California's Ronald Reagan and the Midwest's Charles Percy and George Romney to New York State's Nelson Rockefeller and perhaps a dozen more from both parties—every one would grace any best-dressed list.

Care of Clothes

Some people use a cedar chest to keep clothes safe from moths. But if the cedar odor has faded, or if the lid is warped and not airtight, be sure to also use moth preventive . . . After being in the rain, when you hang a raincoat to dry, stuff some tissue paper in the pockets to help dry the inside corners faster.

Trends

Faded blue, as a popular shade for casual slacks and jackets, will be seen in some interesting new weaves—such as wide-wale cords and hopsacking.

According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, 1967 will probably be known as "the year of the cloth hats!" It isn't that these hats haven't been around for some time, but, rather, that they will reach unprecedented heights of popularity in the next few seasons. They're light in weight, colorful, rain-resistant, c r u s h a b l e—and moderately priced.

The end is nowhere in sight for the popularity of "fancy pants"—and the patterning and coloring of the new offerings almost defy description. (Would you believe—polka dots?) But all of them, no matter how wild, look great with solid blazers.

Dress Tips

Quickest way to get a good suit out of shape is the hands-in-the-pocket habit, or stuffing the pockets with too much stuff . . . While today's shoes require no "breaking in," it's wise to wear new shoes at intervals before donning them for full time wear. (After wearing old shoes for a long time, it's your feet that need breaking in.)

Get chewing gum off shoe soles by rubbing with a wad of absorbent cotton soaked in hot water, then followed with another wad saturated with turpentine.

Hit the Spot

To avoid a "ring" on fabric, after using fluid, spread a layer of colorless talcum powder over the whole moist area. Allow to dry well, then brush off . . . If you get a spot on your suit while eating out, shake a little salt on it. This might remove spot . . . A rubber pad or brush is usually better than a whisk-broom or clothes brush for rubbing spots.

Bad News For Moths: The day is not too far off when every bit of wool clothing you buy will be safe from moths for the life of the garment.

Well-Dressed Men By Size: (Small) singer Jerry Vale, (medium) pitcher Sandy Koufax, and (large) telecaster Frank Gifford.

But suddenly she is wearing a wedding ring and apron and is supposed to be a housekeeper, cook, planner, consumer—and loving wife. And, as a housewife, her place is supposed to be "in the home."

"Usually it is very hard for a young wife to picture herself 'inside' the home—as the center of domestic life," Mrs. Lopata said. "She regards herself as a wife, but sees her apartment as a strange world. Only gradually does she become oriented to being 'inside' looking out at the world."

And then — suddenly—she is a mother. She finds herself "stuck" at home with small children. Her life, heretofore multidimentional — involving business associates, fellow students, and varied activities — becomes "flat." All her intellectual and professional training becomes secondary to one dimension: rearing children.

Interviewees characterized this period as "rushed and busy." And that's an understatement!

The young wife-mother is doubly frustrated when she compares her performance to what Mrs. Lopata calls the "ideal mother image in advertising."

"The ideal is the calm, collected, organized wife with well-scrubbed, well-behaved children and a clean house," Mrs. Lopata added. "Any experienced mother knows this is impossible—but a new one doesn't. She feels she is failing when she becomes tired, irritable, angry with her children.

What is more, the young mother has no accepted guidelines to follow. She feels, more than her grandmother, the psychological burden of responsibility for her toddlers' personality development. But how? Tradition has been discredited; modern child-rearing theorists take contradictory positions.

"It was much easier to bring up children when people believed abilities and traits were inborn. Mothers today have a more difficult role because child-rearing theories have taken away that comforting thought," said Mrs. Lopata.

The "peak stage" in a housewife's "life cycle" comes when she has several small children. According to another of Mrs. Lopata's studies, she tends to think of herself as "mother" first, "homemaker" second and "wife" third.

Motherly problems at this stage make an old-fashioned custom—the kaffee klatsch—very important, she said.

"So much fun has been made of neighborly 'coffees'" but the modern young mother needs help and advice — especially since she tends to live at a distance from her mother, aunts and grandmother.

"Besides the burden of child-rearing shouldn't be only on one young person. Other mothers and other children around are healthy.

Men sit around in their offices complaining and discussing — but that's okay because they call it a conference. College girls and working girls are used to this kind of dialogue; but when they become housewives" kaffee klatsches have a stigma.

So, girls, coin a new term. Let's make coffees 'development and synchronization conferences."

As the first child enters school, Mrs. Lopata added, the housewife—who in interviews anticipated this period for "more time for myself"—finds herself busier. She has to deal with teachers, tutors, PTA and other organization leaders, playmates and playmates' mothers. Her husband probably has a higher income, so her house has expanded in size.

There are new frustrations, too. Husband and children are outside of the home more and more and the wife may be the only person who retains her "inside" orientation. Or she may return to the "outside" — taking up fulltime employment or volunteer work.

However, the woman who has moved (psychologically) inside the home finds the bridges back to the outside not so easy," Mrs. Lopata said.

"The shrinking circle" stage of housewifery starts when the first child is married or has left home. The woman finds herself running the household for fewer and fewer people. She may enter these "empty nest" years feeling unfulfilled and frustrated. Now the mother has time for herself she once craved, but nothing to do.

These years — and the years ahead until her husband retires—may leave her "feeling useless and functionless"—unless she's prepared.

The average life span of a woman is 76 years," Mrs. Lopata said. She will be producing children and living with them at home only about 15 years. That's 60 years remaining—and our society hasn't yet treated preparation for them."

The slim, attractive, prematurely graying sociologist proposes "training for discontinuous careers."

"Education," she said, "must change to better prepare a young girl to cope with the discontinuity (of roles) she will face."

There are shortages in the nursing and teaching professions, for example. If training—and retraining— programs were designed with "discontinuity" in mind, Mrs. Lopata suggested, "the young wife could train in an area and then leave it to raise a family without worrying about being lost when she returned to working."

With tools for a "discontinuous career" at hand, that "difficult period — when a woman is home with small children"—is not a trap.

"A woman," said Mrs. Lopata, "should be able to enjoy those wonderful years . . . the time is so short."

Rev. V. Balla:

Church's 'Double Agent'

The veterans of countless hymns — some of the old organ's 1,682 pipes — and a slumping minister in sweatshirt and slacks were strewn about the church's second-floor study.

"I have," the Rev. Victor Balla pronounced, "worked like a bear on this."

Associate ministers like the Rev. Mr. Balla of First Baptist Church are frequently the odd-jobs men of the parish ministry.

At First Baptist, though, the job was a normal assignment for the Rev. Mr. Balla, who doubles in the ministries of music and Christian education at the church.

While studying at Eastern Baptist Seminary in Philadelphia, "I wasn't sure whether God wanted me to enter the preaching or music ministry," the Rev. Mr. Balla said.

The combination is apparent on the several Sundays a year when he preaches. After playing the organ, the Rev. Mr. Balla walks to the pulpit. And after preaching, he goes back to the organ.

The new, $19,500 organ will be dedicated at a special public service tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 14th and K.

The Rev. Victor Balla examines nerve center of new organ, to be dedicated tonight at the First Baptist Church.

WORLD OF RELIGION

December: The Month of Candles

This is the month of candles for Christians and Jews.

For Jews, the eight-branched candelabrum, the Menorah, celebrates the Festival of Light, or Hanukkah, an eight-day commemoration ending Thursday.

Hanukkah recalls the victory of Judas Maccabeus in the revolt more than 2,000 years ago against Syrian King Antiochus Epiphanes.

Christmas, the great feast of Christianity, has been marked by candles for centuries.

Among Christmas customs is the traditional Christmas Eve rite in rural Bulgaria. Peasants took lighted candles to their barns and wakened the animals with the greeting, "The child is born and blesses you tonight."

According to one account, Martin Luther, inspired by the beauty of starlight shining through the branches of a fir tree, brought a fir indoors and placed lighted candles on it to symbolize the beauty of Christmas.

African Speaker

Tawia

He is the Rev. E. R. Tawia, stewardship secretary of the Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Ghana. Mr. Tawia is the son of animist parents who sent him to a missionary school, where he became a Christian convert. Animism is a primitive religious belief.

Torah Commentary

The first volume of the liberal Jewish commentary of the Torah—the first five books of the Bible—is now being developed, a Reform Judaism spokesman said.

The Torah is a central source of Jewish history, theology and religious practices and festivals. Portions of it are read and commented upon weekly at Sabbath services.

The first volume, the commentary on the Book of Genesis, is to be ready for distribution in 1968.

One question the new commentary is to answer is: "In the light of the latest scientific and archeological evidence, what did the text mean originally and what was its historic setting?"

The project is expected to take three to five years at a cost of $250,000.

Mass Stipends

A stipend is an offering made by a communicant who asks a priest to say Mass for a particular "intention" such as the recovery of a sick person.

The usual rate is $2 for a low Mass, $5 for a high Mass. In many parishes, these stipends constitute a major source of the priest's income.

The National Liturgical Conference contends stipends have the inevitable appearance of a "spiritual sale" and tend to make the Mass look like a private act in behalf of a contributor rather than the joint act of a worshipping community.

Parishes abolishing the stipend system have had to undertake two other reforms at the same time.

They must teach their members to give voluntarily for support of the church budget and must raise the priest's basic salary to a level where he can live adequately without depending on stipends.

Wrong Ideas

The new president of the World Council of Churches has criticized "two erroneous ideas" about the start of the ecumenical movement.

"One is that Pope John started it," Dr. Eugene Carson Blake said. "The other is that the World Council started it.

"Actually the movement began and continues essentially in the aspirations and faith of people, young and old, who have found that their effective expression of Christianity is hindered and limited by all the ecclesiastical structures."

—Mike Baxter

UCC Urges Aid to Hungry

Washington (UPI) — Increased food production in the United States to build up a surplus to help feed the world's hungry people is called for in a resolution adopted at the 157th annual meeting of the United Church Board for World Ministries.

The board, which is the overseas missionary agency of the two million-member United Church of Christ, also urged the Church to support expanded programs for sending agricultural experts, machinery, tools and fertilizer to underdeveloped countries.

'Jews Candid About Christianity'

A Jew feels free to speak "quite candidly and openly" about Christianity for the first time in 2,000 years, a noted Old Testament scholar said in Lincoln.

Rylaarsdam

This freedom is a result of the new religious pluralism that has grown up in the United States, Dr. J. Coert Rylaarsdam of the University of Chicago Divinity School said.

Prof. Rylaarsdam spoke at the annual Willson Lectures at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The United States has become the "center of Jewish life outside of Israel," he said in an interview. "It used to be Germany and Poland. Now there are more Jews in the United States than in any other place in the world.

"The United States sets the pace for Jews throughout the world. What happens to Jewish-Christian relations here is more decisive, more meaningful."

One sign of the Jew's new feeling of confidence was a statement by Rabbi Mark Tannenbaum of the American Jewish Committee "that the Jew sometimes wonders whether the rapprochement between Protestants and Catholics might not eventually be the source of danger for the Jew," Dr. Rylaarsdam said.

He said, in essence, that, "If they get together, they might gang up on us again," the Chicago scholar added.

"The fact that he (Tannenbaum) felt free to say this sort of thing could happen is a good sign.

"Christians still know very little about what makes a Jew tick, religiously and communally. When you don't really know what makes a group tick, you are apt to be suspicious.

"I think it is very much a good thing for this kind of exchange to take place so that people will know what is really the outlook on life that gives momentum to the Jewish community," Prof. Rylaarsdam said.

Your Nurseryman Speaks

9 Ways to Prevent Christmas Trouble

Following are nine hints which could save you time, money and possible trouble during the Christmas season.

1. Most properties have some evergreens that need trimming now. With few exceptions these trimmings can be used to make wreaths, swatches, evergreen ropes and table decorations.

Since you are trimming the plants yourself, you can be sure that they are fresh and will not create a fire hazard in the time between now and Christmas.

Yew, hemlock, spruce and fir are excellent for wreaths. Juniper, the poor man's evergreen, doesn't have the beautiful sheen of some other plants but with a little thought and originality it can create the feeling of an old fashioned Christmas.

Do not trim the tip end of pines. This could damage the tree.

2. Do not buy a Christmas tree that is turning brown or dropping needles. Leave your tree outside until the last possible moment. Moreover, remove it as soon as the holidays are past.

3. Check both inside and outside Christmas lights for possible electrical shorts. Inside the home, a fire can be started. Outside a valuable tree may be damaged.

4. If you use lights on evergreens outside, see that the tree on which they are placed gets a good watering during the first warm spell after the lights have been removed.

5. Under no circumstances use electric lights on metal Christmas trees. These trees conduct electricity surprisingly well and the result of one mistake can be capital punishment.

6. Fireproof cut trees and and trimmings whenever possible. Anyone who has seen a forest fire is always amazed at the speed with which it moves. Evergreens in a house can create the same kind of unhappy surprise.

7. Open fireplaces are always most effective during the Christmas season. However, be sure that there is plenty of room between the fire and the Christmas tree or other Christmas decorations. One spark can destroy an otherwise happy yuletide.

8. Place the Christmas tree in a corner well out of the line of traffic. Pine and spruce needles are very sharp and have been known to injure children's eyes.

9. When you have checked all the safety points outlined above, forget them and this column so you can have a happy, carefree Christmas.

Merry Christmas!.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Two-Story Colonial Meant for Large Family

By Associated Press

Simplicity is the dominant theme of this two-story Colonial. It is meant for a large family, not only because of the four upstairs bedrooms, but because the dimensions of its rooms are suitable for comfortable living without a "hemmed in" atmosphere.

The living room is more than 24 feet long, running from the front to the rear of the house; the family room, also front-to-rear, is 20 feet 2 inches; the combined kitchen-dinette (exclusive of the separate dining room) is 17 feet 6 inches; and the front foyer is more than 14 feet wide.

These figures make it plain that overcrowding would be conspicuous by its absence in this house, even when the entire family might be gathered in one area at the same time.

In addition, the plans of architect William Chirgotis call for a full basement which can be developed to the owner's taste for recreational or other purposes.

The larger and impressive foyer makes a fine reception area, as well as being the key to efficient circulation, distributing traffic effectively throughout the first floor and, by means of an attractive staircase, directly to the second-floor bedrooms.

The foyer also permits an immediate view of the handsome living-room fireplace, which is set off by flanking windows. On the other side of the foyer is the dining room, accessible both to the kitchen-dinette and the family room.

The step-saving U-shaped kitchen work zone provides a maximum of countertops and cabinets. The mullion windows in the dinette section and the window over the kitchen sink assure plenty of light and air as well as a clear view of the backyard.

Only a few steps away is the rear service entry, with a laundry room, lavatory and utility closet. The lavatory is well-located for the family and guests, but even more, it allows children to get to it from the outdoors without tracking through the house

For informal entertaining, the family room has all the necessary attributes, accessibility to the kitchen, a fireplace, wood-paneled sidewalls for a feeling of warmth, and floor-to-ceiling sliding glass doors that lead to the outdoors. Note, too, that unlike many family rooms, it has a spacious closet.

The oversized two-car garage connects directly with the family room. Depending on the size of the lot and personal preference, the garage doors may be located at the front or to the right side rather than as shown in the plans. Space is available for garden tools, lawn chairs, bikes, toys and other equipment.

Upstairs, each of the four bedrooms can be reached directly from the hall. The entire rear wall of the master bedroom is divided into three closets, one of which is a walk-in. A private full bath is equipped with a built-in mirrored vanitory and a tiled stall shower.

The exterior of this Colonial, one of the many variations of Early American architecture, has a homey look, with beveled siding at the front and rear.

A dark, asphalt-shingled roof provides contrast and adds to the Colonial motif. Since the upstairs rooms are not over the family room or the garage, the vertical look of the two-story portion is offset by the one-story section.

This is a house that makes maximum use of every square foot of space on the inside and has old-fashioned enchantment on the outside.

By HELEN HAGGIE

This is the time of year when the homemaker is in a whirlwind of activity.

In addition to the jobs of Christmas shopping, getting the home decorations up, entertaining drop-in callers, doing the extra Christmas baking, making costumes for the children who are to appear in Christmas programs, addressing Christmas cards—there are packages to be wrapped!

"I've tried everything—making everyone pick up the mess they've made with bits of paper, ribbon and such everytime they wrap a package is impossible to do," says one mother of three children

Tidy House

"I do like to have the house tidy when my husband comes home particularly—and I like to have it at least in a state of organized disorder when one of the neighbors comes in for a cup of coffee. But it is almost impossible.

"I encourage the children to wrap the gifts they are giving. It is fun for them to come up with original ideas—but they are SLOW. And very often the activity runs into the dinner hour. Of course, it's discouraging for them to pick up all the pieces before they have finished the project they have started—then get their things out at a later date

"Now, I've just given up and have this," and she pointed to a door with a large sign on it, "Do not enter unless you want to work."

"I've set up a cardtable in here, put in a couple of large wastebaskets, equipped it with all materials needed to make simple ornaments for gift or tree, stocked it with wrapping papers, ribbon, seals, boxes and pens.

Will Clean After Christmas

"Whenever anyone wants to wrap a package he may have the room to himself. I don't bother about trying to keep it completely tidy—and probably won't have a real good cleaning go at it until after Christmas. Thank heavens, I'm not expecting any houseguests—for this is the guest room

"It's solved lots of problems as far as my disposition is concerned. And who wants a cranky wife or mother around during the holiday season?"

Plan Party for Birds

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

Let me suggest that you hold a bird party everyday this winter. Winter birds are most interesting to observe and a well placed feeder will be their invitation to visit you.

A regularly stocked bird feeder located out of the wind and close to the window will provide an opportunity for you to get acquainted with the birds. Many kinds of birds will visit the feeder. Regular callers will be chickadees, titmice, woodpeckers, juncos, cardinals, and of course, sparrows.

The kind of birds which visit the feeder will be influenced by the type of food one puts out Seed eaters have heavy beaks capable of removing seed coats. The juncos, cardinals, and sparrows are in this group of winter birds. Cardinals are particularly fond of sunflower seeds.

If you wish to attract woodpeckers, chickadees, and nuthatches put out suet and shelled peanuts.

Supply the feeder continually with food The birds will rely on the feeder station and will make frequent return visits.

New President Is Mrs. Brehm

Mrs. Leslie C. Brehm will be installed as president of the Garden Club of Lincoln at Monday's meeting beginning at 7:45 p.m. in the Foods and Nutrition Bldg on East Campus

Other officers to be installed are Elton Lux, treasurer, Mmes Jack Rodgers, first vice-president; Glen Litzenberg, second vice-president A. E. Moomaw, corresponding secretary, and Miss Geneva Wheeler, secretary.

Club members will give a Christmas program and the Lincoln Southeast High School Noblemen will furnish the music.

Coat of Stain

Impatient homeowners who can't wait through the ugly duckling stage of weathering a cedar fence or deck can give nature a hand by applying a single coat of exterior quality driftwood stain to the structure Weathering will continue and eventually bestow the prized silver patina

Afterthoughts concerning the Headdress Ball

When Irv Bloom heard the Moores were attending the party, Mr. Bloom polished up his 1958 Rolls Royce limousine and volunteered to serve as chauffeur."

Lo and behold, when he arrived to take the Moores to the Lincoln Hotel, Mr Bloom had completed the "English" picture—he wore a bowler (derby hat to Americans).

Extra Service

If you saw a policeman or fireman at a bellringing station for Salvation Army's annual drive, you can be certain he was off duty—and just adding his bit of volunteer public service during the holidays

"Firemen in their off-duty hours put in 492 hours ringing the bells and for "X" number of years have been the champion bell ringers in the drive," Chief Dallas Johnson reports.

And another off duty volunteer service the firemen perform is to help supervise the children attending the Elks Christmas party.

Chief Joe Carroll is every bit as proud of the 96 volunteer hours bell ringing done by the members of the police force. "Also, through the coffee fund over here, we have given Cedars Home for Children a one-hundred-dollar donation.

In addition, members of the force distributed the Cedar boxes last week—and in January when they are collected by the men, March of Dimes boxes will replace them, Chief Carroll said.

Firemen Do Cook

Two things inspired the compilation of a small cookbook, compiled by members of the Firemen's Auxiliary.

"We wanted people to know all the things a firemen must do in addition to putting out fires," says Mrs Fred Soflin Jr., president of the group." "And we wanted to raise money for charity."

"We've illustrated the first by using cartoons. The recipes are those used at the fire stations, and contributed by firemen or their wives When a fireman has 24-hours on duty, meals are cooked at the station. So a fireman must know how to cook, housekeep, etc, as well as all firefighting techniques"

Copies of the cookbook will be distributed to the mayor and members of the city council on Monday, Mrs Soflin said. Members of the auxiliary are selling the book.

Is Plan Kept Up To Date?

Debate About 1961 Document

By LEO SCHERER

Around City Hall

The plan adopted by the City-County Planning Commission in 1961, is the official document followed closely by City Planning Director Douglas Brogden and his staff

Brogden feels the plan still is basically sound and doesn't need a major revision

Some citizens, not all claiming to be planning experts, say that much has happened in Lincoln's growth since 1961 and aspects of the plan are now outdated in regard to future land use.

Flexibility Point

The plan contains this important point:

"The regional plan is not intended to be a rigid set of specifications into which must be forced the development of the community. Rather, it is to be a flexible guide representing what is currently the best thought and plan for the community of the future.

"It is to be kept constant under study and will be revised and kept up to date. The over-all plan of the community can be of maximum benefit only if it always represents the latest and best thinking for future community development."

O St. Count

One Lincoln businessman, Dick Putney says he doesn't feel that planners are infallible and claims to have the local figures to prove his point.

Putney said the original 1952 comprehensive plan estimated O St. traffic, between 50th and 56th, would be 4,350 vehicles daily by 1975.

However, a recent traffic study, Putney said, estimated the 56th and O daily vehicle traffic load would be 11,800 vehicles in 1985 although actual peak hour counts by the city traffic department in 1964 showed a daily volume of 15,630.

"I favor planning," said Putney, "but a poor plan could be worse than no plan. When errors occur the plan need not be junked but it should be modified to take care of pressing problems and to prevent waste of effort and money."

The present plan was done by Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, Mo., city planners, who are now used by the city on special basis but not as a regular consultant

23 Teachers To Be Honored

Twenty-three elementary teachers from such widely scattered points as Iceland and Laos will be honored at a recognition dinner Wednesday at the University of Nebraska Union

The teachers recently completed a three-month seminar at the University, sponsored by the U.S. Dept. of Education International Teacher Development Program. During the three months, they visited public schools and University classes.

They are among the 300 teachers who participated in the seminar program, which began with an orientation in Washington, D.C. and concluded with the three-month courses at various colleges and universities

County Building Is Now Museum

The building, once the Hitchcock County clerk's office, is the new museum here operated by the Hitchcock County Historical Society

Among the museum items are a stone once used by Indians to make moccasins, tin boxes that once contained Baking Powder and Diamond Matches, and canning jars dating back to 1858

The museum officers include Mrs. Ed Riley, Society president, and Mrs. Otto Stolte, secretary-treasurer.

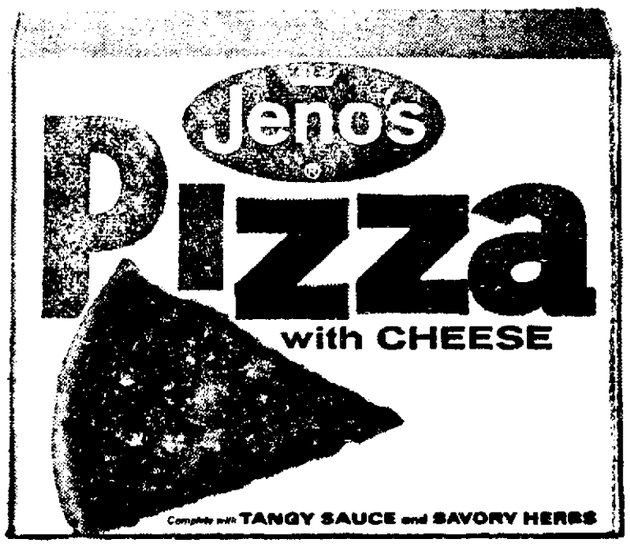
We were going to show that Jeno's Pizza is best,

but our judge ate the evidence


So you'll have to bake one and see for yourself. Betcha you'll like Jeno's tender crust, because it's made with active yeast like good pizzeria crusts are. And you'll like the sassy sauce, the savory herbs that go on top. Jeno's makes Cheese, Sausage, Plain and Pepperoni Sausage. Double-Sizes, too, with everything double but the price to give you the world's largest pizza in a box! Whichever you choose, you'll find that Jeno's is a real Jalapaloza of a pizza!
